BATTLING SIKI IS MURDERED

FIVE ARE BURNED TO DEATH IN TENEMENT FIRE

TODAY

Poor, Foolish Ghandi.

She Writes About Cats.

What Sleep Means.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Copyright, 1925.

Foolish Mr. Ghandi, the Hindu leader, who would like to put the British out of India, is again fasting "as a protest." He is so weak that he can hardly speak.

The British viceroy of India, on the other hand, and all the government of Great Britain are eating heartily, and a handful of Englishmen is still ruling 300,000,000 people in India.

In these days, power belongs to those that eat well and hit hard.

So far as we know, it was always so.

Ghandi is the individual who thought he could help his fellow countrymen to throw off British rule by having them go back to the hand loom and make their own cloth by hand.

What India needs is a leader that will make better looms than the British make, manufacture in India the iron and steel for plows and other things that India needs, put the cheap labor of India to work for the benefit of India, wipe out a few of the unnecessary gods and monstrous idols—and, above all, teach the people to think.

The story and the troubles of the people of India are told in the fact that in 5,000 years of Indian literature the word "liberty" nowhere appears.

The most interesting thing about a cat is its skeleton, most magnificently adjusted mechanism that the mind could conceive. Watch a cat scratch, see her leap from the floor to the table, see the backbone bend. No Damascus blade, no corporation lawyer's argument ever had the amazing elesticity of a cat's backbone.

Cats are useful that kill rats and mice. Ninety per cent unfortunately only kill time or birds. And they carry disease germs, plenty.

The chief medical officer of a great city says, "it is useless to talk about eradicating contagious and infectious diseases of children as long as the children are allowed to play with cats." The cat takes up the disease of the child with which it plays, goes out, calls on another cat, then that other cat carries the disease to some other child.

"The cat will mew, and dog will have his day,' says Shakespeare. He means that you cannot keep a cat from getting out and finding congenial company. When that happens, there is a friendly exchange of views and of microbes.

A $10,000 Persian cat, compelled to stay at home, gets no chance to exchange its scarlet fever germs for some other cat's diphtheria germs. But such cats are few.

About the deaf cat and the cat with odd eyes, we have no fixed opinion. If the cat is deaf, that is probably the fault of the breeder. A cat with one blue eye and one green, or yellow eye, can see as well as any other cat. But cat judges have a right to decide about cats.

A Free Baking Booklet

Some kind of bread is served on the average American table three times a day. The quality of that bread is an important matter. The food value depends on the materials which go into it, whether it is made at home or in the bakery. The Baking Booklet has been planned primarily as a guide in home baking, but through its discussion of materials it offers help also in the choice of commercial baked products.

This invaluable offering is a free government publication, and our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below, enclosing two cents in stamps for return postage. Write your name and address clearly.

HINT INCENDIARISM AS FIVE-STORY BUILDING IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

Scores of Tenants, Aroused Without Adequate Warning, are Rushed to New York Streets in Little More Than Underclothing—Taken Care of by Neighbors and in Cafes.

FIREMEN WASH ADJOINING ROOFS TO KEEP BLAZE FROM SPREADING

Rapidity With Which Fire Ate Way May Have Prevented Escape of Other Victims, Firemen Say as They Search Ruins in Belief That More Bodies Will be Found.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Five persons were burned to death early today when flames swept a five-story tenement in East Fourteenth street at the foot of the East river. The fire started at 3 o'clock this morning and was still raging at 6 o'clock.

Scores of tenants, aroused without adequate warning, were rushed to the streets in little more than their underclothing. They were taken care of by neighbors and in several of the all-night cafes in the vicinity.

The fire was fanned by a stiff breeze and firemen washed down the roofs of adjoining buildings to keep the flames from spreading.

The fire marshal and assistant, on the scene investigating the cause of the blaze, indicated their belief that the fire was of incediary origin.

The firemen had just extinguished another fire of only slightly less serious dimensions less than two blocks away when they were notified of the blaze on Fourteenth street.

Bodies Not Identified

The bodies were not identified. A check-up of the tenants in the house was being made by fire officials and police, but the panic and chaos that prevailed among the survivors of the fire, made such work difficult.

It was believed possible that more bodies would be found in the wreckage.

The rapidity with which the fire spread, crackling up through the five stories of the building and through its roof, may have prevented the escape of other victims.

While the fire still was raging, firemen found two charred bodies on the top floor of the house. A few minultes later a shout came through the smoke and din that two others had been found on the floor below. The body of a child was discovered in the second floor hallway. All were burned beyond recognition.

James L. Swan, Cleveland, former resident of East Liverpool, had his right eye removed at the Lakeside hospital, Cleveland, recently, as a result of a cinder lodging in it while he was on the train enroute from Florida to Houston, Texas.

When he sought medical attention, the eye was found infected. He returned to his home in Cleveland, where doctors recommended that the eye be removed.

He was discharged from the hospital a few days ago and is now recuperating at his home. He is a brother of Rev. William Swan, of Willoughby.

TRACTION HEAD ROTARY GUEST

Gary Wills Discusses Public Utilities at Noon Luncheon.

"Public Utilities," with special reference to street railways, was the topic of Gary Wills, superintendent of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company, at the luncehon meeting in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. today.

President F. L. Wells announced that the annual crippled children's party would be held in connection with next Tuesday's luncheon. Wives of club members will be special guests. A meeting of the children's, transportation and the table committees was held at the conclusion of today's session.

Salvation Army's Christmas Dinner Fund Totals $1,505.16

Half Way Mark is Reached in Campaign to Meet Expense of Winter Relief Activities.

The half way mark was reached today in the Salvation Army's campaign for $3,000, with which to meet the expense of Christmas dinner and winter relief activities.

Collections total $1,505.16, of which $717 was sent in by mail, $532 was collected in the potteries by a committee of workers and $256.16 was obtained through kettles maintained on the downtown street corners.

The kettels will remain on the streets daily until Christmas. Extra kettles are to be sent to the East End and Wellsville a few days preceding the holiday.

Demands for relief this year have ben heavy and additional funds will be needed to care for the work, according to Field Major Joseph Hughes, in charge of the Salvation Army headquarters. Indications are that at least 300 Christmas baskets will be distributed to needy families.

F. C. HICKS, 53, ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN, DEAD, VICTIM OF MAGIC

Acute Dilation of Heart Claims Theatre Patron as he Watches Performance of Magician Thurston.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Federick C. Hicks, alien property custodian and former member of congress from New York, was dead today, the innocent victim of his interest in mysticism and magic.

In a semi-darkened theatre last night, Hicks was watching Thurston, the magician, entertain a brilliant audience with his tricks and almost supernatural effects. He was deeply engrossed. Finally there came the act where the magician seemingly makes the body of a woman float unsupported through the air.

A gurgling sigh broke the stillness of the dimly-lighted theatre. Most of the audience thought it was a part of the performance. The magician, however, had seen a figure slump in a seat in the front rows. He signalled for the lights to go out, quickly directed attendants to the spot and while the house was darkened, they carried the body of the unconscious man to the box office.

A physician pronounced the man dead. Examination of papers in the clothing disclosed that it was the alien property custodian. Death had been caused, the physician said, by acute dilation of the heart. The body was taken to a hospital, and thence to his home.

Hicks had gone to the theater alone.

Three Attempts Made by Unknown Intruders, Believed to Seek Her Son, to Enter West Palm Beach Grounds.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 15.—The private detective force around the home of Countess Millicent Rogers Salm was doubled today, after three attempts by unknown intruders to enter the grounds during last night.

The intruders were frightened away by shots fired by detectives placed on guard at the countess' beach home a day or so ago, when rumors were broadcast that an effort would be made by representatives of the boy's father, Count Von Hoogenstaten Salm, to kidnap the infant.

All persons unknown to the Rogers family have been warned to keep away from the premises of the little home.

Salem Boy Victim Of Traffic Crash On Damascus Road

Joseph Journey, 13-year-old Salem boy, is dead today, the victim of a traffic accident on the Salem-Damascus road.

The lad, who resided a short distance west of Salem, was walking on the south side of the Salem-Damascus road when he was struck by an automobile driven by Clayton Borton, 61, of Alliance. The glare of headlights of a car approaching him from the opposite direction, blinded Borton so that he did not see the youth.

He took the youth into his machine and rushed him to the Central Clinic hospital, Salem, where he died. His skull was crushed, one leg broken and he was injured internally.

SENEGALESE PRIZE FIGHTER SHOT IN BACK AFTER QUARREL

Trailed From Dance Hall on "Hell's Kitchen" Fringe.

SLAIN ON STREET

One Bullet Punctures Kidney, Other Enters Left Lung.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Battling Siki, celebrated Senegalese boxer, was trailed from a "black and tan" dance hall on the fringe of "Hell's Kitchen" early today, shot twice in the back, and killed. His body was found by a policeman, face down, in the middle of West Forty-First street, in front of an apartment house at No. 350, at the end of a trail of blood leading from a garage at 356.

Wife Identifies Body.

Siki, whose real name was Louis Phall, had been shot at close range. There were powder marks on his clothing. One bullet punctured his kidneys, the other his left lung.

Police promised an arrest shortly. They learned that an hour or so before Siki's body was found, he had had an altercation with a man in a resort frequented by negroes and whites in West 50th street. Two men with whom he had a dispute some time ago were also there.

The slain fighter's body was positively identified by his wife, Lillian. She glanced at the body in West Thirtieth street police station and cried:

"Oh, Louis, my own dear Louis."

Body Found By Policeman.

Siki's body was found by Policeman J. J. Meehan, who knew Siki, and had talked to him a few hours before he was slain. The policeman also found a short barreled .32 calibre pistol, with two bullets fired.

A trail of blood led along the sidewalk in front of the garage to the middle of the street. A short distance away lay Siki's hat.

Siki had only eight cents in his pocket and wore no jewelry. Police scout the theory that he was murdered by bandits.

An enemy who warned him more than a week ago, by means of a note thrust under his door, that he was going to "get him," is being hunted.

CONGRESSIONAL "WET" BLOC OPENS CAMPAIGN TO MODIFY VOLSTEAD ACTS; EDGE OFFERS BEER BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Inaugurating the legislative campaign of the congressional "wet" bloc to modify the Volstead act, Senator Walter E. Edge, Republican, of New Jersey, arose in the senate today and called upon congress to authorize the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer.

Edge flayed the attitude of "bone drys," and declared his bill would end the present era of national lawlessness and drunkenness while bringing into the federal treasury about a billion dollars annually in revenue. National prohibition in its present state, he declared, is "a failure, a crime-breeder and provoked of nation-wide disrespect for all law."

Edge pointed to statistics showing increased arrests for drunkenness, to records of increased insanity, to the "havoc in the government service," and to arrests among enforcing officials, even in the coast guard, in his attack upon the Volstead act.

Assails Prohibition Law

"No one is satisfied with the present law," he declared, "unless it be the bootleggers."

His proposal for permitting 2.75 per cent beer, Edge said, would "help make the Volstead act honest," curtail the supplies of bootleggers, decrease the demand for poisonous concoctions, minimize the transformation of private homes into distilleries, reduce the growing scandal of national law defiance, close illegal dives and salvage human wreckage in addition to producing tremendous sums of federal revenue.

"More than six years ago, the now notorious Volstead act became a law," Edge began. "No statute ever enacted in the history of the world has been more generally violated or more universally condemned.

"Everybody, whatever may have been the original view as to the wisdom of this legislation, agrees something must be done and at once.

"Newspapers and magazines emphasize increasing violations, the disregard for law and the attending national disgrace of existing conditions. The world glibly discusses our failure. An unbiased and frank consideration of this situation is "imperative."

Opposes Restoration of Saloons.

Edge declared he felt the legalization of 2.75 percent beer was the only solution available to congress. He attacked any plan for restoring saloons and declared he did not advocate "light wines" in his bill because he felt such a proposal would be unconstitutional.

"If what I propose fails to bring the relief demanded—and I frankly admit in advance no complete relief is possible without amending the constitution—then at least the country will have a clearer understanding of the steps which must be taken if America is to reestablish her position as a community of law-abiding citizens.

Edge called attention to church surveys which showed "an increase in intoxication and an appalling condition of violation of the law." Real friends of prohibition, he added, have admitted the Volstead act is a failure.

Bootlegging Profitable, He Says.

"A large proportion of citizens of every class violate the law without the slightest compunction," he declared. "It is indeed unusual when a number of men, and frequently women, gather together that inquiry is not at once made as to who has a supply. Conventions and conferences develop improvised bar rooms. Clubs and societies all over the country have their special rendezvous and in no way confined to any class.

"To shut our eyes to these facts is simply to dodge or evade the truth.

"The occasional closing of restaurants and public places defying the law is simply a gesture bringing but little, if any, lasting results. If one is closed, two are usually opened. The legitimate restaurant or cafe obeying the law is compelled to shut down, as it cannot meet the illegal competition.

"Bootlegging has become the most profitable of businesses."

A cattle shed costing $2,500 is being built at the state university dairy farm. The building is being erected at the rear of the main building and is 150 by 30 feet. Space for 50 cows will be furnished in the new structure. A supply of new equipment will make the barn one of the best of its kind in the state.

Scholarships have been given eight girls of the university by the State Federation of Women's clubs. Only high school graduates of high standing are eligible to take the competitive examinations. The scholarships are awarded to those girls making the highest average.

THOUSANDS DIE

Vital statistics gathered throughout the country show that thousands die annually through carelessness and failure to take the proper care of the stomach and bowels Medical practitioners urge the proper medical treatment for even minor cases of indigestion, constipation, etc., arising from disordered conditions of the stomach It has been found not entirely necessary for strict diet in such cases where Ka-di-ok, the wonderful laxative stomach tonic and system builder is used. Ka-di-ok is highly recommended in all cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, constipation, kidney and liver ailments nervousness, headache, rheumatism,, etc., as thousands have used it in this and other states and testify as to its merit in such conditions.

Mr. Wm. H. Stevens, Route 5 Fairmont, W. Va., had stomach trouble so bad that he was unable to do his work on the farm. He took a treatment of Ka-di-ok and his troubles were removed. He says he now feels like a new man, never felt better in his life, can do his farm work with ease and pride, and personally thanks the Ka-di-ok representative for the good Ka-di-ok has done him.

Ka-di-ok is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate drug store.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY — By Edgar Pew Norris

TWENTY-FOUR.

On no occasion that he remembered had his sister ever visited him in his office at the plant, and Noble Harwood naturally was surprised when Mrs. Brent Daly was announced by his secretary. What did she want? He had not seen her since his wedding day, and he had had nothing to say to her since that evening when she let him know how she felt about his marriage to "this-this infant." He remembered how red-hot with rage her face was when she called Laurel "this-this infant."

"Show her in immediately,' he said to the secretary, and went to the door to receive her.

"Good morning Jean. How are Brent and the little ones?"

"Very well, Noble," she sand, indifferently, as she took the chair he offered.

Her brother sat down and regarded her expectantly. Very evidently something was weighing heavily upon her mind.

The visitor opened her purse and drew forth a folded envelope.

"I thought you might be interested in the contents of this letter,' she began. She did not offer it to him. "Mary is coming home."

"To Central City?" The news was disturbing.

"Yes, of course."

"Why do you say, 'of course?'"

"You might have expected that she would."

"She was always complaining about living here, and wanting to live in New York, or London, or anywhere but Central City."

"Yes, I know." There was a trace of a smile in Mrs. Daly's countenance. "But you might have expected that as soon as she learned you were married again, she would return to Central City."

Noble smiled grimly. "Yes, I suppose so. That would be like Mary."

"And then her children are here," Mrs. Daly suggested.

Noble's eyes grew hard. "SHE never cared anything about them."

"Nevertheless, they are a convenient excuse."

"Dammit, Jean, I wish there were a way to prevent her from coming here.

"Ah, Noble, you would deprive Central City of its greatest thrill in years —the spectacle of seeing the first Mrs. Noble Harwood meet the second Mrs. Noble Harwood."

Anger appeared in Noble's face. "Don't be vulgar, Jean!"

It was Mrs. Daly's turn to smile grimly. "It's a little drama you arranged yourself."

Noble Harwood got up and went to a window to gaze out through the smoke of many funnels at the workings of this huge plan. Damn! A line in a letter written to him by his first wife after their divorce came to his mind and impressed itself upon his thinking: "You are an OLD fool, not a young one. . . . ." It was that 'old' that she had so painstakingly underscored that annoyed him. She always laughed at his tonics and exercises, his efforts to keep young.

He went back to his desk. "Jean, you've got to help me with this. I want you to go to New York to meet her. Tell her that——."

"Now Noble! You ought to realize that nothing I can say or do will influence her. I'm YOUR sister. And resorting to that wouldn't help anyway. Noble, you're a clever business man, but you always were a fool when it came to women. Mother, Mary, your daughters, and now Laurel Todd."

"Well, what would YOU do?" He was chewing a cigar.

"There's nothing TO DO but face the music. IF your conscience doesn't hurt you, why worry?"

Noble Harwood sat down again. "I don't care, Jean, except that I don't want her stirring up trouble with the children."

"You haven't any doubt that they will side with her?"

He looked up at her, suprised. "Why——."

"You lost all claims to their sympathy when you married Laurel."

"Let's leave Laurel out of it," he said calmly. "I think the children will decide according to the right."

"Of course,' Mrs. Daily observed, enigmatically. She arose. "I didn't know whether you would get the news otherwise, dear brother, and I thought you ought to be prepared," she said, apologetically.

"I'm glad you did." His countenance failed to bear out the assertion.

For some minutes after she left, he walked savagely back and forth in his office, like a lion in a cage. He wondered if he ought to tell Laurel.

There was, however, no need for him to be disturbed on this score. Laurel knew the news before he came in to dinner. There was an item in the society column of the Daily Times:

"The former Mrs. Noble Harwood will sail from Havre this week on the S. S. Paris to return to Central City for a visit according to a letter received here today by friends. She has been touring Europe since her departure from Central City, more than a year ago. Recently she had been at Deauville, where she had a cottage."

Christmas Trees Are Saved

Here is good news. Christmas trees are a crop, harvested annually and then renewed or replaced before the next harvest. That is an end for which tree-lovers and conservationists have long striven. They have wanted to preserve the beautiful and happy Christmas tree custom without destroying the evergreen forests of the land. They have argued and preached and warned and advised—and now the American Tree association says that their work has succeeded.

According to the association, which exists for the purpose of protecting American trees, cutting for the holiday trade is done selectively these days. Trees are taken here and there in such a way as really to prune or clean out coniferous forests, giving new growth a better chance in the struggle for survival. With these methods, the same forest each succeeding year will yield a goodly crop of trees suitable for the purpose of Santa Claus and his friends.

Furthermore, commercial cultivation of Christmas trees has developed rapidly to a profitable business and may in time do away with the general use of uncultivated trees.

There still remains the occasional individual vandal who goes into his neighbor's woods or the small evergreen corner privately owned, and steals a tree. Something severe needs to be done to him, but that is a separate problem.

Played To Death

When "Red" Grange started on his professional football career, an enthusiastic editor gave him credit for "knowing enough to pay a manager half the gate receipts to do his thinking for him." Subsequent developments raise a question as to the quality of that thinking.

"Red," as millions of newspaper readers know, has slumped badly in his playing. And it doesn't seem his fault. He has tried to carry out an impossible schedule that required him to play the most strenuous of athletic games almost every day for five weeks. No human being could stand up under the strain and play well to the end. "Red" has been worked to death—or played to death.

It is riding a good horse to death. It is also killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. There is loss of money, to player and manager both, in such a policy. The public comes to feel cheated, and loses faith and interest in the hero.

Still, it's probably just as well. The tired, disillusioned player may go back to college and finish his education. The public may turn to other types of heroes. Hero-worshippers may not always make demi-gods of athletes, in preference to those of more substantial achievement.

Scenery And Exercise

Lincoln Ellsworth, the young Arctic explorer who won fame with Amundsen, and plans another dash with him to the Pole, has just been visiting the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. And as might be expected of so vigorous a person, he did not confine himself to mere words of admiration.

"Every day while here at the canyon," he writes, "I have set myself the task of tramping on foot from the rim down to the river and back. It is a drop of one mile in elevation, but seven miles by the trail. I find the effort, however, well worth while; for only those who have tramped amid the majestic scenery of lofty mountains understand the mental satisfaction and keenness that comes from a healthily tired body."

There are two things in this striking passage that ought to hit home to a lot of our young sheiks and lounge lizards. And for that matter, to a lot of middle-aged folks of both sexes who find themselves growing puffy and stodgy.

There is the lure of mountains, with its lift to mind and body. Many a person, unaccustomed to much exertion, has been surprised to find the ease with which, after a little hardening, he can tramp and climb. There is something in the elevation that seems to pour vigor into anyone of sound heart and lungs, so that in the pure air of the hills, if he does not venture too high, he can accomplish feats impossible at low altitudes.

There is also that phrase which delivers a lecture in itself—"a healthily tired body," with the "mental satisfaction and keenness" that it brings. The most obvious defect of present-day life is that so many of us end the day with unhealthily tired nerves instead of bodies pleasantly dulled by wholesome exercise, setting the mind free, promoting sound digestion and inviting refreshing sleep.

It's queer what simple problems scientists will worry and puzzle over. Here's Johns Hopkins university experimenting to find out why women keep men waiting, when any husband can tell you that it's because they are never ready on time.

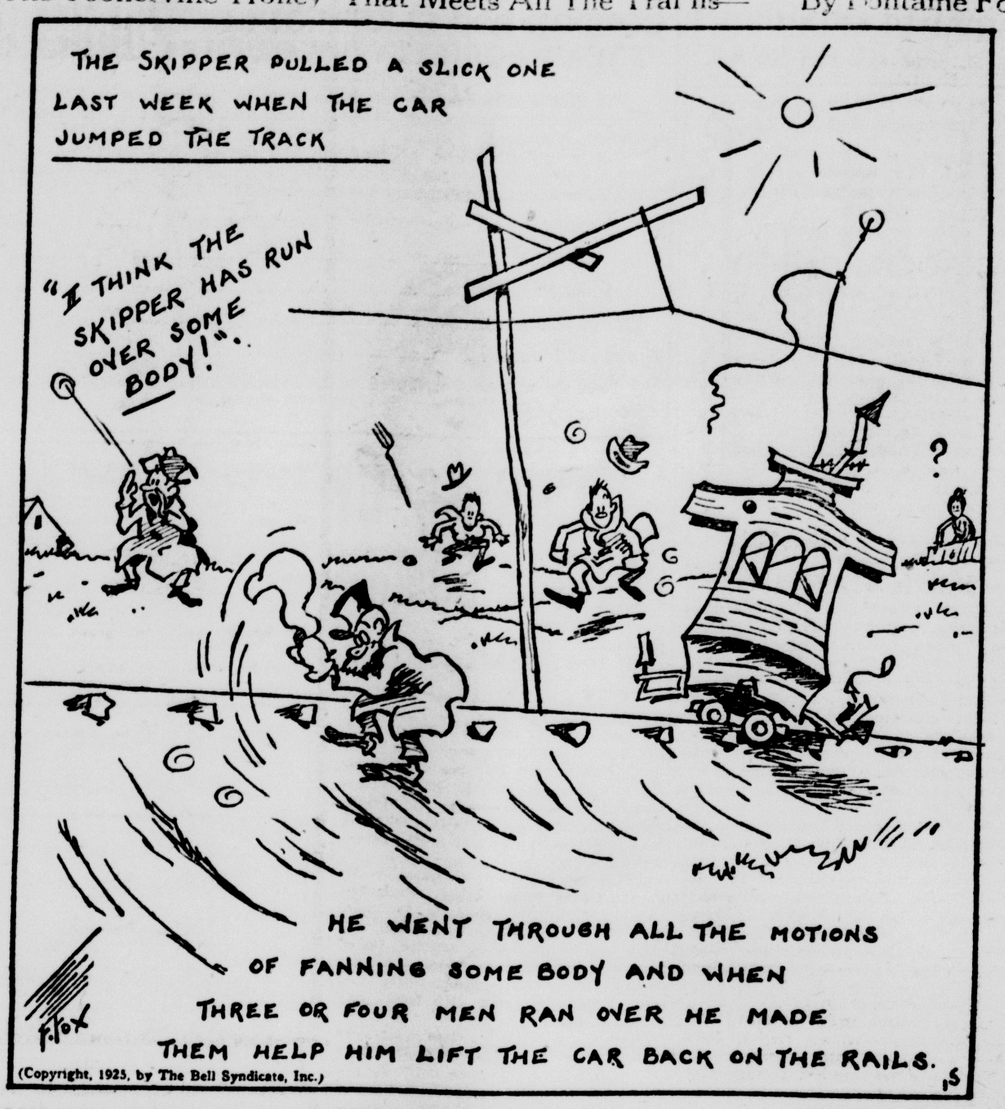

Secretary Hoover says the "war on waste" is winning. That's largely because there's less waste on war.

People used to be ashamed of mortgages, but now most folks seem to thrive on them.

The federal budget calls for $3,494,308.44, and a mere taxpayer naturally wonders what Uncle Sam expects to do with the 44 cents.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains — By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Manhattan is so overwhelmingly big natives pass its wonders as casually as they breathe. In a club the other day it was discovered only one of fourteen New Yorkers knew the significance of a huge new building they pass daily on West Fortieth street.

It lifts its fragile gracefulness to the sky in black and gold and at night flames of light dance about its top. It is supposed to represent a lump of coal. For a quarter of a century millions passed St. Thomas' church on Fifth avenue with a glow of admiration.

Yet it was only a year ago a pedestrian—an outlander incidentally—discovered a roguish sculptor had twisted the lover's knot, placed so symbolically over the bride's entrance to the church, into the most unromantic of all symbols—the dollar sign.

Thousands have passed the 70-foot-high Cleopatra's Needle in Central Park without knowing it was presented by a Khedive of Egypt and transported to New York, through generosity of one of the Vanderbilts, at a cost of $100,000.

I have never found an uptown New Yorker who has noticed the little Jewish cemetery on the South Side of Chatham Square. A reporter talked to every person he could find in a certain block on Pearl street, and not one knew it once housed, the famous Captain Kidd.

People think of the Woolworth building as the largest in the world. It is the tallest, but the largest is the Equitable building at 120 Broadway. Most of these buildings are skyscrapers within themselves—the Terminal building on Cortlandt street, for instance, has a battery of 39 elevators.

In a building in midtown there are three barber shops catering almost exclusively to tenants, and yet I venture not one of a thousand natives knows its location.

Two years ago a popular fiction writer suddenly struck a snag of inaction. He could not write simple sentences without involuntary elisions and transpositions, which happened even with the spelling of ordinary words like "the" and "and." Sometimes he spelled backward, and he was neither drinking nor using drugs. He believed thoroughly he was written out, after 20 years of working at his profession. In the midst of this misery and travail he carried on. His friends, nor even his wife, knew his condition. Six months ago he was riding on a train and fell in with a stranger who mentioned him by name. "I get a kick out of his stuff, but never see it any more," he said. That night the writer sat at his tpewriter and completed a story, which immediately sold. He has been selling his stuff since. "Perhaps all I needed was a word of encouragement," he said.

Restaurant hold-ups are such nightly affairs safety vault boxes are in demand. It is said jewelry establishments suffered a slump in disposing valuable gems until the situation was in hand. One New York woman displayed remarkable presence of mind in a robbery. When robbers pounced into the cafe she slipped three huge diamond rings off her fingers into her cup of coffee and sat placidly as the mauraders did their stuff.

There is a story of a stolid Britisher who sat slightly spiffed at his table during a hold up. Women were fainting and men grew pale. The Britisher ate on, unconcerned. When the bandits came to him they demanded his wallet. "Bad form," he mumbled "to disturb a gentleman eating. Go away until I finish my soup." It so disconcerted them they left him unharmed. "Rum sort of chaps, robbers," he muttered, continuing his soup.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Stone Mountain Memorial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 15.—Work on the Stone Mountain Memorial has again started—this time under the direction of Augustus Lukeman, who was appointed sculptor to take the place of Gutzon Borglum. It is planned that the work will proceed without further interruption until the memorial is completed. Mr. Lukeman is a Virginian by birth who has lived for many years in the north. It is felt by many that because he is a native southerner he may have a greater sympathy and understanding in his work than one who has not a background of southern traditions.

It is, of course, well known how after planning for years this great memorial and then finally getting the work actually under way, Borglum clashed with the committee in charge. The outcome of this was his dismissal and his subsequent smashing of his working models.

Much discussion followed. Members of the memorial association were outraged and declared he had destroyed property belonging to them. On the other hand, many of Borglum's brother artists upheld him in his claim that the artist is within his rights in destroying his working models. They said that it would be practically impossible for one artist to take up the uncompleted work of another, and further, that it was doubtful whether any one would undertake such a task in the case of a living artist. There have been cases where the original artist has died before completing his work and some one else has gone on with it. Working models are not always entirely accurate, and it is claimed that it is next to impossible for the man taking up the work to know exactly what the first had in mind.

After all this hullabaloo and bitter controversy had simmered down a fresh start was made in the enterprise. Mr. Lukeman was selected as the new sculptor and submitted entirely new plans. These are said by some to surpass the idea of Borglum, although this is a matter of personal opinion. One of the principal differences appears that whereas Borglum planned to show the army at rest, Lukeman shows it on the march. The work in the central group which had been done by Borglum is to be utilized.

It has been said that in view of the fact that the Stone Mountain project will become a national memorial—one to which the entire nation will point with pride—it was felt by many that some recognition should be given to the soldiers who fought to maintain the Union. Mr. Lukeman has done this by showing in the foreground the figure of a Union soldieer with that of a Confederate soldier, both of whom had died for their espoused causes. Perhaps Mr. Lukeman could better do this because of his southern birth than one who had been born in the north. His motives could scarcely be misinterpreted.

A Woman's Idea.

The idea of using Stone Mountain as a memorial to those who fought for the "lost cause," originated in 1915 with Mrs. C. Helen Plane, the widow of a Confederate officer. Through her efforts the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association was organized. The site of the memorial was a gift of Samuel H. Venable and his two nieces. When it is finally completed this memorial will be unlike anything else in the world.

Aside from the actual carving on the side of the mountain there is to be a Temple of Fame. Inside of this there will be cut from the stone wall 13 columns representing the 13 states of the Confederacy. The spaces between these columns will be smoothed to a polished panel and each of these will be dedicated to a southern state. On each will be inscribed the names that belong to the history of that particular state.

The women who aided the Confederate cause are not to be overlooked in this temple. They will be represented by a symbolic figure carved out of a huge block of granite which is to be left undetached from the floor.

There will also be a lagoon and a museum. The former will be 290 feet long and 125 feet wide and will front the Memorial Hall at the base of the mountain. At the side of the lagoon, adjoining the base of the mountain, two flights of granite stairs will ascend to the colonnade across the front of Memorial Hall. One of these will contain 13 steps representing the states of the confederacy, and the other will be a flight of 48 steps, representing the present number of states in the Union.

The supreme token of reconciliation between the north and the south is believed to be in the act of congress which authorized the director of the mint to make five million memorial half dollars for completing the memorial. It is said to be the first time in the history of the world that a nation has conferred honor upon a defeated enemy.

Unique Memorial Coin.

The coin itself is unique in several ways. It is the only money ever issued by the United States government to bear an equestrian figure, and it is the only money bearing the likeness of purely military figures. Also it bears the inscription "Memorial to the Valor of the Soldiers of the South." Surely it seems that the issuance of this coin by the government should alone cause the many old-time southerners who are still fighting the war to declare peace and call off hostilities.

The manner in which these coins are to be sold is interesting. They were distributed throughout the states, the quota for the south being 2,500,000, and the remaining 2,500,000 to be sold throughout the rest of the country. The quota for each state was calculated on the basis of the white population and bank deposits. Arizona was the first to complete her quota.

The governors of the 13 southern states held a conference and decided upon the plan of inaugurating what is known as the Girl Feature contest. Under this plan the services of the girls of the state are enlisted in the sale of the coins. The 13 girls of each state who sell the greatest number will be invited to attend a ball which is to be held in Atlanta in January. Their expenses will be paid and it is guaranteed that they will be accorded traditional southern hospitality.

The individual cities and localities have their own campaigns in this contest. In Washington there was held a huge mass meeting, the central attraction of which was Al Jolson. There is also to be a ball at one of the leading hotels. It is to be known as the Blue and Gray ball, the Blues being headed by Mrs. Butler, the wife of the senator from Massachusetts, and the Grays by Mrs. Robert E. Lee. All of which further indicates the combined interest of the north and south in this great memorial.

It is interesting to note that in one instance at least the north led the south in the campaign for raising funds. The director of the Girls' Feature contest in Washington was most anxious to obtain a picture showing a prominent Republican woman and a Democratic woman together buying coins. She thought of course there would be no difficulty in obtaining the Democrat. But she was wrong. As she puts it, "A Republican instantly volunteered but I had a terrible time getting a Democrat." Things do take unexpected turns!

Stylish "Bobs"

Easy to Keep Thick, Wavy, Lustrous

Girls: Try this! When combing and brushing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can dress your hair immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy, an abundance of gleamy, wavy hair, sparkling with life, incomparably soft, fresh, youthful.

Besides beautifying the hair, a 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" from any drug or toilet counter will do wonders, particularly if the hair is dry, thin, brittle, faded or streaked with gray from constant curling and waving which burn the color, lustre and very life from any woman's hair.

"Danderine" acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine act on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, stopping falling hair and helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

BEST SORE THROAT TREATMENT FOR CHILDREN

Mothers know that children's sore throats are serious, often leading to tonsilitis, scarlet fever or diphtheria. Also that it is hard to treat because the usual remedy is a gargle and children cannot gargle.

But a wonderful new internal prescription has been perfected, called Thoxine, that goes direct to the cause of sore throat and corrects it at once. Children take it willingly. One swallow is all that's needed. Equally effective for night coughs. Perfectly safe. No chloroform or other harmful drugs. Money back if it fails. 35c., 60c. and $1.00.

A word to the wives

—not forgetting the mothers and sweethearts! Here's some honest advice on what to give the man who smokes . . . Prince Albert pipe tobacco! Nothing could make more of a hit with a smoker than good old P. A.

The handsome pound crystal-glass humidor with the sponge-moistener top will carry the joy of Christmas morning far into the new year. Every cool, fragrant pipeful will bring new pleasure—and everlasting gratitude for your excellent judgment.

Then there are the pound and half-pound tin humidors for the smoking-table at home, the desk at the office, the work-bench. More important than the containers (good-looking as they are) is the tobacco that's in them . . . Prince Albert, the most enjoyable smoke mortal man ever knew.

The pound crystal-glass humidor is especially arrayed in Christmas clothes. A space is provided for writing "To....." and "From....." No further wrapping needed. Convenient! No matter what the size or amount, give Prince Albert. You cannot do better!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Look at the U. S. revenue stamp—there are TWO full ounces in every tin.

OHIO JUSTICE COURT PLEDGES JURY TRIALS

Zanesville Prohibition Officer Defines Stand in Signed Statement.

LAW, HE SAYS

Calls Upon Other Magistrates to Follow His Lead.

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 15.—Daniel H. Stires, justice of the peace of South Zanesville, and one of the prohibition enforcement officials in Ohio, issued a signed statement today, guaranteeing every offender in his court a jury trial. Justice Stiers' statement as follows:

"As a believer in constitutional law I shall hereafter grant the right of trial by jury to all persons brought before me. The supreme court has tried to indicate to all of us justices that this is what we should do. I think it has tried to tell us that we should be very particular to see that all persons get all their constitutional rights. I do not think the court could mean to give the people part of their rights and withhold the remainder.

"The court did not go as far as it might in its ruling, however, even judges of the supreme court are human and maybe they will do better next time if we justices back them up and give them encouragement.

"I call on all justices in Ohio to follow my lead in helping to restore the rights of the people. Let us be dominated by the spirit of July fourth 1776."

E. ROCHESTER SAFE CRACKED

Yeggs, However, Make Dry Haul in Warehouse.

Yeggs blew the safe in the Harsh and Elton warehouse at East Rochester some time between Saturday night and Monday morning, but found the safe empty, it developed today.

The attempted robbery was discovered when the warehouse was opened, and Sheriff Wright was notified. The owners say that the door on the safe was not locked but the culprits evidently made no attempt to turn the handle before lighting the fuse.

The Charles Swearingen general store at Hanoverton, five miles east of East Rochester, was also looted over the week-end. Women's wearing apparel, canned goods, etc., valued at between $150 and $175, and about $4 in change was taken. Entrance was made by forcing open the back door of the establishment.

The authorities believe both jobs to have been perpetrated by local talent.

He said that street railway financiers must invest between $4 and $5 for each dollar of anticipated annual revenue, which means one turn-over every four or five years. Taxes also impose a heavy burden on the companies, seven cents out of each dollar going into government coffers.

As to the pretty little poem, describing a charming lady resting in a big arm chair, with a cat for companion, all we can say is:

At 18, fair lady, try a handsome young man sitting close to your chair telling you how wonderful you are.

At 25, try a little baby standing beside the chair and learning to take its first few steps.

At 70, try a grandchild sitting on either side of you in the big chair while you read a fairy story.

You will find the young man, new baby, or grandchildren a considerable improvement on the fluffiest Persian cat that ever lapped up cream and never caught a mouse.

The scientific committee that allowed a body of students to go 60 hours without sleep—a crime against the students, but perhaps that doesn't matter—reports that sleep has both length and depth. One man in five hours of deep sleep may store up as much rest as another in 10 hours.

The learned committee also suggests, about 10,000 miles wide of the mark, that sleep may be only "a form of intoxication, due to storing of poison in the system."

If we could get rid of our poisons as fast as we develop them, say the wise men, we might get along without sleep.

That is scientific bosh. Sleep is to a human being what the time spent in recharging is to an electric battery. We use up our nervous and physical powers in walking hours, and make up the loss in sleep. The very young, in constant movement, need much sleep.

The adult in his prime, less active, needs less sleep, but plenty. The old man in good health needs little. The very old man leads a life that is between sleeping and waking.

"Snooze" Kinneard And Orange Blossoms Appear at Strand

Jack "Snooze" Kinneard, protege of "Red" Mack, assisted by his Orange Blossom company of musical comedy stars, opened a two-weeks' engagement at the Strand theatre, Monday.

This is Kinneard's third visit to East Liverpool, and, as was the case of his two previous visits, standing room was at a premium Monday evening.

The offering for the first half of the week is "My Panama Girl," one of the big shows which was presented during the company's first visit to East Liverpool last spring. "Snooze," a show in himself, keeps the audience in an uproar during the whole performance. The comedian is assisted by a half score of other principals and a real beauty chorus, who entertain with catchy song hits and clever dance steps.

Attractive stage settings are used by the company. The costumes are pretty.

The photoplay offering for the first half of the week is "A White Sin."

The bill to be presented during the last three days of this week is "Pretty Papa." This is one of Kinneard's newest shows.

F. C. Hicks Dies

His wife and daughter were prostrated at the news of his death.

Hicks was 53 years old, and a native of Westbury, L. I. He served four successive terms in congress from his home district, resigning at the close of the 67th congress to practice law. He was appointed alien property custodian by President Coolidge last April, succeeding Thomas W. Miller.

During the last campaign he was in charge of Republican Eastern headquarters in New York.

Mrs. Hicks and a daughter, Georgiana, survive. Funeral services, not yet completed, probably will be held at Westbury.

'Red' Grange Will Make His Movie Debut In California

Phantom of Gridiron Will Act Story of His Own Life — From Iceman to Millionaire.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15. — "Red" Grange, phantom of the gridiron, will make his motion picture debut in California.

C. C. Pyle, manager of the famous football player, announced here today the former Illinois star will come to Hollywood March 1 to don grease paint and cavort before the clicking cameras.

"The Arrow Pictures Corporation, which has deposited a check for $300,000 in a Champaign, Ills., bank as the minimum guarantee for Grange's first picture, plans to film it in New York, but as work must be started March 1, Grange will come to Hollywood where the weather is pleasant and outdoor scenes may be taken at any time," Pyle said.

Grange's initial screen appearance will find him playing a role he knows better than any.

He will merely act the story of his own life—from iceman to millionaire.

The scenario which is being written for Grange, according to Pyle, will picture the redhead as a struggling youth in college. He will be the football star, campus hero.

But after all just the average college boy.

Then presto. The big climax. A modern Aladdin in the form of professional football contracts or something almost as golden will flash across the screen. And in the end, of course, "Red" will marry the daughter of the banker in the quaint, old college town where he once had to get up so early in the morning to peddle ice—or perhaps just milk—in the celluloid version.

"Grange is no fancy actor," his manager said today. "He wants to take things easy at the start of his screen work, and so his first picture is just going to be a simple story much like the story of his own life.

"And what could be better, more splendid?" challenged Mr. Pyle, as he looked toward Hollywood from the most expensive suite in Los Angeles' most expensive hotel. There was no one to contradict.

Charge Man Removed Bullet From Knee to Cheat Conviction

Government Claims Alleged Thief Practiced Emergency Surgery, Changing Calibre of Evidence.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15. — To cheat the government in its attempt to convict him of stealing from interstate shipments, Louis McCoy, 38, sat on his cot in county jail here and with contraband tools practised emergency surgery, removing a bullet from his knee which he knew would be used as evidence against him. This was the charge today that Assistant United States District Attorney Marie Nungesser offered the jury hearing McCoy's trial, before Federal Judge Paul Jones.

At the time of his arrest McCoy refused to undergo operation for removal of the bullet. J. W. Smalley, Baltimore & Ohio railroad detective, testified he shot an unidentified man in the knee with a .38 calibre revolver. In trial yesterday counsel for McCoy demanded then that the bullet be removed from McCoy's leg and presented as evidence that he was not the man who was shot by the detective. The operation last night uncovered a .25 calibre bullet.

Assistant District Attorney Van Buren, however, found a long knife, a small bottle of salve and a needle and thread in the man's cot. He said he had no doubt that McCoy had also taken about four crude stitches in his leg after presumably removing the .38 calibre bullet and replacing it with the smaller one.

Young La Follette Given Republican Committee Places

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Young Bob La Follette, son of the late leader of Wisconsin insurgency, was formally assigned today to senatorial committees as a full-fledged Republican.

The youthful Wisconsinite was assigned to Republican membership on the manufactures, Indian affairs and mining committees by the Republican committee on committees and will be given a share of Republican patronage. His father served before him on the manufacturers and Indian affairs committee, being chairman of the former until ousted from the Republican party in the senate last March.

Although now aligned with the Republicans, young La Follette is not expected to become a regular by any means. His only comment on the Republican honors was "I have nothing to say."

Cabinet of Briand Opposed Capitulation To Finance Board

PARIS, Dec. 15—The Briand cabinet today decided against complete capitulation to the finance commission of the chamber of deputies.

The cabinet met and discussed Finance Minister Loucheur's financial program. It was reported the resignation of M. Loucheur and that of the entire cabinet was under consideration. The cabinet decided, however, not to resign or to permit M. Loucheur to resign.

The finance minister was instructed to confer with President Malvy, of the finance commission, and M. Lamoureux, reporter of the commission, and seek a "formula of practical collaboration for balancing the budget and providing for a sinking fund.

Plan Congressional Quiz Into Federal Anti-trust Suits

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A congressional inquiry to determine whether there has been a complete collapse of the government's prosecutions under the anti-trust laws is being considered by senate progressives, it was learned today.

The department of justice, it was disclosed officially, has lost nearly every anti-trust action instituted in the federal courts since July 1, 1924, excepting those in which pleas of guilty or the so-called "consent decrees" have been entered. Most of them have been removed from court dockets since the advent of John G. Sargent as attorney general.

HONOR MOTOR TAGS FOR 1926

Put New Licenses on Cars, Police Chief Suggests.

In an effort to speed up the distribution of the 1926 automobile license plates, Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, following the lead of other law enforcement officials throughout the state, today announced that next year's tags would be honored during December.

In making it possible for motorists to use their new plates during the remainder of this year, the police chief also declared that 1925 plates could not be used after December 31 and motorists who appear on the streets on January 1, displaying the old licenses will be subject to arrest.

Not more than 250 automobile owners have obtained the new plates, according to Deputy Automobile Commissioner J. S. Hilbert. Due to the complicated form of this year's license, distribution is slower than in previous years and motorists who wait until the last week to apply, in all probability, will be disappointed. Truck and pleasure car licenses are available now.

The local distributing office will be open from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight to distribute the new plates.

"Mr. Zero" Ordained "Bishop of Wall Street" by Friends

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Urbain Ledoux, better known as "Mr. Zero," was ordained today by his reorganized army of the hopeless as "Bishop of Wall Street," succeeding the late Rev. William Wilkinson.

Notwithstanding last winter's opposition to his humanitarian efforts by police, Wall Street and Trinity church, "Mr. Zero" announced today that he would shortly assume his ecclesiastical role and preach to the New York Stock Exchange and throughout the financial district.

"I am a minister of brotherly love," declared "Mr. Zero." "I have devoted my life to the loveless, wifeless, homeless, voteless and workless. I shall preach my ideals to Wall Street and I challange the Trinity church corporation to pit one of their ministers against me."

"Mr. Zero' is occupied at present in constructing his city of Comrades, a city within a city, on the Bowery. This new hobohemia includes nine buildings—the comrade apartments, comrade hotel, the bedsheet theatre, Zero's tub (all you can eat for five cents with free mirrors), the plebian senate and city hall, and employment agency.

Mrs. Ethel Roosevelt Derby, daughter of the late Theodore Roosevelt, is the only woman to be made a member of the National Crime commission of the United States.

Uruguay will have a large apartment and school combined.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Stocks of the railroad companies gave another demonstration of their strength and popularity in early trading today, continuing the moderate advance in Price which featured yesterday's session. Major interest was displayed in the "merger" stocks, though the eastern and northwestern dividend-payers were not lacking in attention. American Can's advance to a new record high price above 265 was the feature of the industrial list. Speculative "shifting" from the motors and oils resulted in an irregular tone in these sections of the market, the movement being punctured by a 10-point drop in Chrysler in the first half hour of trading.

Huge treasury and tax payment operations in the money market was held responsible for the temporary tightening of short term funds, and call money renewals were again posted at 5 per cent. The failure of opponents of the new tax bill to load it up with amendments and conditions, particularly in advancing the minimum surtax rate, was very gratifying to Wall street, indicating also the probable ability of the administration to put through its whole program of constructive business legislation.

Trading in railroad stocks broadened as the session advanced.

Battling Siki Slain

The man's identity is known to the fighter's widow, the police declare. It is thought that bootleggers, to whom Siki owed money, had a hand in the murder.

After receiving the threatening note Siki went about with a depressed air, and told many persons he had enemies who were out to "get him." He complained to the police, as he had often done before, but scorned to accept their advice that he carry a gun.

"If I can get an even break, I can take care of myself with my fists, or, if need be, anything handy I can pick up," he was wont to say.

The scene of the murder was within a stone's throw of Siki's home. Siki lived with his wife and pet monkey at 361 West Forty-first street, almost across the street where the body was found.

Police, summoned to the scene, immediately began a vigorous search for Siki's assailant or assailants. They began checking up Siki's movements just prior to the killing.

Has Colorful Career.

Siki has had probably the most colorful career of any man who adopted the ring as a profession. He was born in St. Louis, Sept. 16, 1897, and early in life deserted his drab job of bottle washer to do battle in the roped arena.

His exploits were incredibly amusing. He always entertained the crowd once he was in the ring. He seemed to take his fights as jokes, and often went into battle after having trained on the choicest wines and liquors.

He fought with great success and achieved his greatest fame when he won the light heavyweight championship of the world by knocking out Carpentier. He lost this title later on to Mike McTigue, of Ireland, in a seventeenth day of March battle in Dublin.

Had Happy-Go-Lucky Nature.

Outside the ring, he was constantly getting in trouble with individuals and with the police. He was of a happy-go-lucky nature and never avoided a battle, no matter how much the odds were against him.

In Paris, after his victory over Carpentier, he visited all the well-known American bars and attempted to pay for drinks all around to strangers, including Americans, many of whom refused. The French resented this action on Siki's part after he had toppled their idol.

On another occasion in Havana, he leaped out of a hotel window. When picked up by passerby, he smilingly remarked:

"I am Siki, the great battler."

Father of One Boy.

Siki was bitten by a lion cub in Marseilles, France, just before he was to have fought the British Middleweight, Moore. It was though that this would prevent Siki from entering the ring with Moore, but it didn't.

In the United States, the "singular Sengalese" frequently got into trouble with the police and was locked up on numerous occasions. He went "broke" a dozen times, only to recoup his fortunes by another fight or two. He was well liked by his friends but generally regarded as his own worst enemy.

Siki married Gertrude Amphier, a Holland girl, in 1921. He was the father of one child, a boy.

Married Second Time.

There was some question about Siki's marriage to the Holland girl. At any rate, Siki married again. In July 1924, he was married in the Municipal building, New York City, to Miss Lillian Werner, white woman. His son was by his first wife.

Last July, Siki was felled by a knife wound at the same spot where he was murdered today.

NAME "THAT'S THAT" BOARD

DeMolays Appoint Committee to Produce Play.

A general Production committee was named last evening for the home talent play, "That's That," which will be presented under auspices of Harding chapter, Order of DeMolay, in the High school auditorium Monday and Tuesday, December 28 and 29.

The committee is headed by Walter Niblock, assisted by William Kerr and other members. R. H. Perry, member of the Masonic lodge, which is sponsoring the DeMolay, is also assisting the committee.

Distribution and the advance sale of tickets for the show were discussed by the committee. Rehearsals are being conducted each evening in the grill room of the Masonic temple, Broadway.

"That's That,' is a John B. Rodgers production, being one of the 1926 plays. This will be the second time that the show has been presented, all scenery and costumes being new. The scenes are laid in a de luxe hotel at Palm Beach, Florida. The action deals with members of the elite social set, seeking diversion at the resort. There is a romance, involving a concealed identity, which keeps the story hot with interest. There are pretty girls in lively chorus numbers as an added feature.

The task of assembling the cast of 100 will be completed tonight.

Lead or Polonium May Replace Radium As Curative Medium

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Lead or polonium, surcharged with sun's rays, may soon replace radium as a curative medium. As the result of experiments made by Professor Deslandes and a young Rumanian woman student at the French Academy of Sciences, it was stated today.

Announcements have already been made by British scientists that lead has been found to have curative values affecting cancer, and the experiments in the French Academy of Science appear to not only confirm these experiments but also to indicate that lead and polonium may be used for other cures, in place of radium.

The young Romanian woman student, working in collaboration with Professor Deslandes, has found that certain cheaper substances, among them, urnaium and polonium, take on radio-active properties when exposed to intense sun radiations.

BROOKHART-STECK FIGHT NEAR END

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The contest between Senator Smith Brookhart, (R.) and Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, for the junior senatorial seat from Iowa, will be closed Saturday, it was announced today. Both sides will complete their cases before the senate elections committee with oral arguments Friday and Saturday.

The committee then will determine the legality of contested votes. If it decides that some 4,000 Brookhart votes, now contested by Steck, were legally cast, the present senator will be seated for a full six year term.

Defective Rail Blamed for Wreck; 11 Persons Injured

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Investigation on the derailment of the Clarksburg-Pittsburgh night passenger train on the Baltimore & Ohio lines shortly before midnight, near here, disclosed today that a defective rail was responsible. Eleven persons, mostly from the Pittsburgh district, were injured, one seriously.

The injured were taken to the Fairmont hospital, where it was stated that all will recover. Railroad officials considered it fortunate that the casualty list was not greater because one Pullman and a day coach rolled over an embankment into the West Fork river.

RAILWAYS SAFER THAN EVER BEFORE

The work of railway employees has been safer this year than ever before and the record for safe handling of passengers has been better within the last three years than ever before although not quite so good this year as last year. The Railway Age, which publishes statistics showing the increase in the safety of railway operation, says that it is now only one-third as dangerous to work for the railways and only one-fifth as dangerous to ride on their passenger trains as it was twenty years ago.

"The progress that has been made in increasing the safety of operation," the Railway Age says, "is strikingly illustrated by statistics of the last two decades. In 1904 one man out of each 357 employed by the railways was killed. In 1914 this had been reduced to one employee in 538, and in 1924 to one in 1,164. The record of 1924 as regards safety of employees is the best ever made in any entire year. In the first eight months of 1924, however, one employee in each 1,784 was killed while in the first eight months of 1925 only one in each 1,824 was killed, which indicates that the record of 1925 will show further improvement. The annual accident figures show that railway employment is less than one-third as hazardous as it was twenty years ago, and less than one-half as hazardous as a decade ago.

MRS. GRIFFITH'S LETTER IS REVEALED TO THE PUBLIC

Alabama Woman Has Used Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup Thirteen Years and Is Still Enthusiastic About It.

Dr. Thatcher's celebrated Liver and Blood Syrup has always met with general favor among all classes and for more than half a century has been recognized as a tried and true remedy Some remarkable evidence of the widespread popularity of this preparation has come to light in the form of letters received by the manufacturers. Among the most interesting shown is one from Mrs. Lydia Griffith, R. F. D. No. 1, Tallahassee, Ala., who writes: "I consider Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup an old friend of mine, as I have used it in my family for thirteen years and in all that time it has never failed in a single instance of giving the desired relief. I gladly recommend it to al who suffer from indigestion, stomach troubles and impure blood."

If one may judge from present indications as shown by the large number of people who are calling for it, Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup bids fair to break all records in the near future for number of bottles passed over the counter, which alone is one of the strongest recommendations that can be made in its favor, for people would not buy it so continuously and advise their friends to take it if they were not perfectly satisfied that it was doing them good.

The public is reminded that Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold in East Liverpool by Carnahan Drug Co., with the positive guarantee that your money will be returned if it does not benefit you.

Unmuzzled Senator Held for Biting Man Sentenced in Manila

MANILA, Dec. 15.—Senator Joe Veloso of the Philippine senate has been sentenced to two months and one day in Bilibid for biting the policeman who tried to arrest him when his gambling den was raided two years ago.

Veloso won his senatorship in the last election—he was only a representative at the time of the biting episode—by making his campaign in an airplane, a unique method in Philippine politics. Troubles are coming thick and fast for the senator, for the aviator who flew the campaigning airplane is now suing for the salary promised him and never paid.

The local papers have been waxing quite witty at the expense of the biting senator. The Manila Times in an editorial said: "We have heard of legislators being muzzled, but we never knew exactly what it meant until now. The senator evidently had left his in Ayuntaminento (Philippine legislative hall) when he was guilty of this indiscretion."

TOWNSHIPS TO BUILD ROADS

Work in Many Sections Scheduled to Begin in January.

Although $18,000 has been received by County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton from the state treasurer to be credited to the county road fund, under the provisions of the Green law, $1,000 is to be paid out to each township on order. No money will be checked out until January.

This was made known at a meeting of the county commissioners with trustees of all township Monday.

Township maps, showing preferential roads to be improved in one, two-three order as designated by the trustees of the different townships several months ago, were given the boards of trustees. So interested are the trustees in going ahead with this particular road program, that work in many township will begin immediately after January.

Middleton township will be the first to become active, and will build a road that will connect intercounty highway No. 502 with the East Carmel cemetery. This township will also go ahead with the improvement of the Clarkson-Rogers road to the St. Clair township line.

Some townships will build nine-foot concrete roads with the fund now made available, while other townships will build gravel, slag and cinder roads.

An additional $1,000 will be due these same townships next year from the fund that was created by the last legislature.

St. Clair township proposes to make some improvement on the Sprucevale road from the end of the concrete road north of Calcutta to the St. Clair-Middleton township line, and this work is expected to begin early in the new year.

Center township proposed to improve the Lisbon-Teegarden road which will tap the Lisbon-Salem road, the road extending from the west end of the Canton bridge in Lisbon north through Logtown, thence east to the Salem-Lisbon road.

In Salem township, the road extending from Franklin Square to the Salem-Lisbon road is to be improved, and the county commissioners have ordered County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk to run a line for this purpose, and as early as possible. Taking this road out of the mud will give another hard surfaced road out of Leetonia.

So interested are the various boards of township trustees in constructing a secondary road system, it is declared that more mileage will be improved in this county next year than in any single year since the construction of improved roads was inaugurated.

SCHEDULE GIVEN FLEET OF TRUCKS

Township trustees who were in conference with the county commissioners Monday were anxious to obtain the service of the county fleet of trucks, that a schedule has been assigned that will keep the fleet active until next April.

The fleet is now working in Perry township, and will remain there until Dec. 21, when the trucks will be placed in Salem township and remain there until Jan. 4.

Fairfield township has been granted the fleet from Jan. 5 to Jan. 18 and United township from Jan. 19 to Feb. 2.

Yellow Creek township will have the use of these trucks from Feb. 3 until Feb. 16 when they will be sent to Middleton township and remain there until March 2, after which they will travel back to Madison township, remaining there on road work until March 17. Liverpool township has been assigned the term of March 18 until April 1.

The county steam shovel will go into Middleton township within a few weeks to begin grading, and as this township has over $5 000 in its road fund now, it is proposed to do as much work as possible during the early part of the year.

By making this assignment of the county fleet of trucks, it is the idea of the commissioners to apportion the time of service in each township as evenly as possible, so that all townships in the county can be served.

BRICK PLANT TO RESUME SHORTLY

The plant of the Summitville Brick company at Summitville will be placed in operation within a month, it has been announced by General Manager J. M. Johnson. This plant was recently destroyed by fire, and although insurance loss has been adjusted, the work of rebuilding has of necessity been slow, due to the inability of the company to obtain prompt delivery of equipment.

Steady operation of this plant is assured, it is said by Mr. Johnson as orders for future delivery for its texture building brick are heavy, especially in the Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit district.

Agreement Filed.

For failure to abide by the terms of an agreement to purchase one acre of real estate, an action has been filed in common pleas court by the Columbiana Tire and Rubber company against Ella Elsholtz, who first purchased the property from the plaintiff and who later sold her interest to Michael Fialla. The petition relates there is now $1,383.25 due on the property and Fialla has been made a party defendant to the action.

COURT GRANTS LEAVE TO FILE

In the case of Dink Bowling against the Pennsylvania Railroad company, where $1,000 is sought as a result of an accident, the court has granted the defendant leave to file its answer to the petition of the plaintiff by January 2.

An amnded petition is to be filed in the case of H. Mitchell Gunder against Francis Ziegler, leave of court having been granted the plaintiff on his own motion. In this case the plaintiff claims there is due him from the defendant $840 for room and board.

Women of Plymouth Want Women Police In Crime Wave War

PLYMOUTH, Eng.—Indignant at recent comments on excessive immorality in Plymouth and at the fact that the authorities have refused to appoint women police to patrol the town, 2,000 women inhabitants propose to organize a march to deliver an ultimatum to the municipal authorities.

Recently Plymouth has been the scene of many assaults upon women and young children ,and the demand for greater police protection is being supported by religious bodies and social organizations.

The increase in immortality is attributed to the serious overcrowding in the local tenements—which are a blot on the town—and the lax control by parents.

Lorah Lines Up Strong Squad For Opener With F. & M.

Local Passers Will Meet Old Team-Mates In Thursday Battle

Brother vs. Brother Scoring Duel Anticipated With Bob and Tom Pusey on Opposing Sides; Percy Wyant and "Chuck" McConville Also Prove Valuable Cogs in Taylor Machine.

FORMER team mates of the caged court who battled shoulder to shoulder through a difficulst last season's schedule will become bitter basketball enemies when Coach Lorah sends his Blue and White quint into action on Thursday night at the high school gymnasium against Sam Taylor's Franklin & Marshill academy outfit, of Lancaster, Pa., in the opening scrap of the card here.

Team against team, brother against brother and, unless anticipations fail of relization, a red-hot scrap to open appropriately what appears now to be one of the most brilliant seasons in years—all will combine to make Thursday's lid-lifter a sure fire attraction that is calculated to sell tickets faster than the proverbial hot cakes.

Sam Taylor is bringing to East Liverpool a team that he confidently expects to be the best F. & M. floor product in recent years, and the fact that three of the regulars are East Liverpool boys is no small tribute to the brand of basketball developed in the Ceramic City.

And for every point that Bob drops in, fans will count on an equalizing figure from his brother, Tom, who'll likely be filling one of the point making roles for the Lorah combine from Thursday on. This duel is certain to provide a few high test sparks.

Paul English, best scholastic fullback in the county for the season recently closed, critics from all points north agreeing also, will draw one of the guard jobs.

Elmer English at center, Carl Wilson at forward and probably Bough at the other guard will constitute the lineup unless Coach Lorah decides to change it around a bit before game time.

Franklin & Marshall will have the experience of at least two games before they arrive in East Liverpool. In both of the engagements in which the Taylor outfit has figured thus far, the Pennsylvanians have run up lopsided scores, swamping Harrisburg academy by the count of 58 to 14 in the opener.

In addition to the five named above, Lorah will also have the services of Banks, who has been working out with the first string outfit, and can pick from J. Hamilton and H. Deidrick, forwards; Brozka, center; and Hanes and Jack Bromby, guards.

POWER QUINTET DOWNS LISBON

Dodge Motors Lose on I. O. O. F. Floor; Score, 30 to 13.

Lisbon 'Dodge Motors' basketball passers proved easy pickings for the Power Five last night on the Odd Fellows' floor, where they went down to a 30 to 13 defeat.

The Power five outclassed the visitors. The locals used their reserves in the second half.

The Power five set the pace, leading by the score of 10 to 6 at the end of the first period. At the end of the half the score was 22 to 6.

With the Power five substitutes in the lineup the game became more even, only outscoring the Lisbon lads by a point.

Todd, former Wellsville high school and Franklin and Marshall academy star, was the stellar performer, caging seven baskets from the field, besides playing well in other departments of the game. Jester followed Todd in scoring, finding the baskets for five field goals, while Bucher put up a strong defensive game at guard.

Sullivan, Johnson and Henderson were the best performers for the Lisbon five.

CHANGING STARS IN GOLF FIRMAMENT
Will 1926 Season See Some Dimmed, Others Brighter?

By Norman E. Brown.

As the leading brothers of the professional golfing fraternity hie around the links of the south and tropical west there is a feeling among close followers of the game that the 1926 season will see some of the well known stars of the game fighting to keep from being pushed entirely off the tee of public interest by the younger element.

A few years bask, for instance, Walter Hagen, Long Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchinson ruled the roost. The others were just background for them in the big tourneys.

Hutchinson was the first one of the trio to slip. He has tried in vain the last four years to draw the limelight by a victory in one of the major tourneys and has failed.

Long Jim Barnes seemed about destined to step out of the limelight when he did a comeback by winning the British open title last summer. Just how long Barnes can hold the pace he set that day and in tourneys later remains to be seen. He is 38 and has had a long life in tournament play.

Walter Hagen boasts of but one major title now—the national professional championship. He is still the greatest of all tournament players, due to his sangfroid, his coolness under strees, and his usually absolute control over his shots. But his work last season was anything but typical of his game.

And when Leo Diegel, pride of Canada, turned Hagen back in the Canadian open, the former again indicated quite clearly that he is ready to demand a place in the sun. Hagen and Diegel were paired together in the last round. Hagen was two strokes behind the Canadian, but that ordinarily would have made the battle more interesting, with Hagen in his usual form. Hagen's tournament play has been a repetition of coming from behind—outplaying the leader.

But Diegel matched Hagen hole for hole. The man who once won the British open title two out of three years took an eight on the first hole, a par four. From that point on his game was off form. Diegel played brilliant golf through the entire day.

Diegel's game last year proved that he has eliminated the fault that early handicapped him—that of "keeping his feet" at crucial moments.

The Canadian, however, is but one of close to a dozen of the younger set that has been fighting for the limelight the Big Three have held for years. Numbered among the others are Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Bill Melhorn, Mike Brady, Bob MacDonald and more lately Cyril Walker and Willie MacFarlane.

It's going to be a tough year for the Big Three.

NAT SLAB ACE HAS GOOD YEAR

Walt Through Just Like John D. is Broke.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Those vigilant and disinterested souls who stand around waiting to sound the first alarm for volunteer pallbearers were pleased to see the beginning of the end of Walter Johnson when the Pirates beat him in the final game of the 1925 world series. Walter, they chorused with pardonable glee, was through, all-over-and-done-with, passe.

The writer presumes that one ball game proves this fact. He, however, would prefer to judge the merits of the case on one season, the last.

Look at the Records.

The official records, recently issued, show the 38-year-old master to have turned out a very natty performance for the season of 1925. In fact, only two other pitchers, Rommel, of the Athletics, and Lyons, of the White Sox, topped him in games won, in spite of the fact that he was incapacitated for more than a month.

Had Johnson retained his health over the entire campaign, it is altogether conceivable that he would have won at least 25 games, thereby driving his critics to cover. At is was, he won 20, with Rommel and Lyons leading him by a single victory.

Only seven games were lost by the Senatorial wonder and in percentage of victories, only Stanley Coveleskie, another elderly gent, had the edge on him.

Then there was the matter of earned runs, a department that gives the real low down on a pitcher's ability. Here Walter was third, Coveleskie and Herb Pennock, of the Yankees, being the only American league pitchers to better his figures.

Hit for .433.

Next? Well, the old boy hit for an average of .433, which is generally regarded as a fairly adequate performance in any league. It wasn't any build-up, either. Johnson was used in many games as a pinch hitter and proved to be Washington's most dependable right-hand batter among the relief forces.

Fielding? Don't make us laugh. Our stays are a trifle tight. He went through the entire season without an error.

Poor, old Walter Johnson!

Ruth Starts Training At His Sudbury Home

Great Hitter Shuns Broadway's Bright Lights as He Thinks of $52,000 Yankee Contract, Plays Golf to Put His Legs in Condition.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—According to those who hover in the great man's wake, George H. Ruth, the well known baseball player, is on another of his periodical seances of self-denial down at the old homestead in Sudbury, Mass. Our Mr. Ruth apparently selects every second years to starve himself into submission and at present the great famine is on, or so they say.

He made his lone appearance on Broadway, since the conclusion of the baseball season, at the Army and Navy game, and it was noted with great glee that he was down to his last 230 pounds, which, if true, is not so bad, at that. He probably outranked this figure by 20 pounds at a corresponding period last year.

They say Ruth really is sincere this time in his course of spartan austerity. Never before, it is said, has his self denial been so great or so steadfast. Never before has the business been so necessary. One more season like the last and the $52,000-a-year man wouldn't be able to sell himself to the Yankees for 30 cents on the dollar.

Perhaps the young man has come to a tardy realization of the situation. Perhaps it is just a matter of environment. Seemingly, he can embrace the cloistered existence to better effect in the winter time when, perversely enough, it is not so necessary for him to be in good condition. Associations and environment have a lot to do with what seems like a useful career headed for a premature end.

Ruth was very near the end during the 1925 season. An extremely sick man, he was allowed to return to the game too soon for the good of either himself or his club. He was not in condition to play ball at any time during the campaign, and there was but slight hope that he would be.

Realizing the hospelessness of his task, he made little effort to train and, finally, was suspended by Miller Huggins. This action had something of the desired effect, for Ruth finished with a bit of a flourish, coming up from .260 to .290 in hitting and getting a matter of 22 home runs.

This, however, was not the kind of a record the Yankees were paying him $52,000 a season to compile. Neither were they gratified to note that Ruth's legs seemed to be failing him, a tell tale sign in a ball player's career.

He couldn't range the outfield with his old abandon. His speed on the bases was gone. However, the writer knows a lot of ball players who, placed in Ruth's position, couldn't have been out there at all.

Therefore, those who predict that Ruth will not come back may be a bit hasty. If he can work himself back to something like normalcy, there is no reason to assume that his leg trouble will be either chronic or permanent. The legs can be built up by plenty of walking. He is getting that now with two rounds of golf daily and soon will go south to continue the system.

The rest remains with Ruth and his diet, if any. If he takes no greater pains with his condition than he did last year, there will be no hope for him. He must live the simple life or take the consequences.

Trains on Red Wine.

Dorando, the famous marathon runner, drinks red wines and eats macaroni when in training, a diet which would stagger any American athlete. What troubled him most during his visit to America was that the macaroni was not the true Italian brand.

Young Jockey Wins Top Honor of British Flat Racing Season

LONDON.—To a young jockey of only twenty-one years of age, who has only ridden for six seasons, has fallen the highest honor in English horse-racing, that of being the champion jockey for the current flat-racing season.

The young jockey is Gordon Richards, a member of a family famous in English horse-racing and he rode his first winning race in March, 1921. Since then he has mounted the ladder steadily every year, and during the present flat-racing season he has outstripped every other jockey in England with a record total of over 115 winners.

He is said to be the finest exponent of the present-day method of jockeyship, and does not know the meaning of fear.

Likes His Beefsteak.

Arthur Lancaster, an English athlete, who, among other startling feats, has buffeted a punching bag for 28 hours on end, believes in beefsteak, sardines and eggs as a training diet. When in training he neither drinks nor smokes.

"Hinkey" Haines May Get Another Big League Trial

"Hinkey" Haines, former Penn State football star and later a member of the New York Yankees, may get another chance in the major leagues next season. He did good work with Rochester last season. He's an outfielder. He blames Miller Huggins' efforts to change his batting style for his failure to remain "up."

Jack Kearns, perfumed ex-manager of Jack Dempsey, has long been given the lion's share of the credit for making Dempsey champion of the world and the greatest drawing card the sport world has known to date.

"Kearns took him when he was a bum and made him a champion," is the tribute often paid the gentleman of the loud shirts and rapid chatter.

But Kearns' failure to reap a harvest with. Mickey Walker may well raise the question as to whether or not Kearns' genius as a pilot has been over-rated.

Kearns took over the management of the welterweight champion when that man was the only active king in the ring and when his services were really in demand. But to date Kearns has failed to reap a harvest with him. Walker's recent battle with Sailor Friedman, one of the leading contenders for his title, netted the champion but a share of the total receipts of something like $35,000. This is a trivial amount for a champion to earn in these days of high finances.

This despite the fact that the other champions were not drawing any portion of the limelight at the time.

Walker never was a popular champion. No doubt Kearns expected to talk Mickey into the limelight. He failed to do so. He apparently has made no effort to advance the welter king as he did Dempsey, by matching him in clever style. Whatever credit is due Kearns for Dempsey's rise must be for Kearns' skill in picking the right men for him in the right order. His failure to so match Walker would indicate that it wasn't so much the fact that Kearns picked the right ones that made Dempsey champion as it was Dempsey's ability to sock whomever Kearns sent him against.

Apparently a popular bubble regarding Mr. Kearns has been busted.

Bobby Quinn, president of the Red Sox and, by that token, boss of Lee Fohl, manager of the team, asks a very pertinent question anent the failure of Lee to turn the world upside down with a team last season.

While the jolly panners are asking, "What did Fohl do last year to merit his retention next season?" Quinn counters with this query:

"What could any other man have done with the same mess?"

Which, to my way of thinking, very adroitly and effectively puts the knockers on the defensive.

That Chicago still thinks of Eddie Collins as the good old reliable star at second base, rather than as a manager, is indicated by the joyful manner in which Windy City fans receive word that the veteran infielder believes his leg, injured last August, has fully recovered and will not handicap him next season.

The injury forced Collins out of the game for the remainder of the 1925 campaign and, because of his baseball age it was feared that the accident might spell the end of his career. Eddie, however, reports the peg entirely mended.

Should Collins be forced to manage his team of hustlers from the bench next season there will be a merry scramble for the second basing job—and a deep regret on the part of the fans who have followed Eddie's play for years.

Coast Welcomes Johnson.

Pacific Coast league fans will welcome the return of Ernie Johnson, who was very popular with the baseball public when he played with the Salt Lake team before he went to the New York Yankees. It is expected that next season will see Ernie playing one of the infield positions with the Portland Beavers in addition to piloting the team.

LUTHERANS WIN FLOOR BATTLE

Annex Church League Victory at Expense of Methodists.

On the First Methodist Episcopal floor last night, the Lutherans won their first Church league victory, when they downed the Methodists by the score of 26 to 25.

The game was a nip and tuck affair, the score being 23 to 23 at the end of the regular periods of play. The Lutherans annexed the victory in the extra period.

The Methodists led the Lutherans during the first half by a 15 to 12 count, but in the second period the Lutherans set a fast pace.

Anthony and G. Woessner were the Lutherans scoring aces. Bromby, Dawson, Nease and Karns did the scoring for the Methodists, Bromby being the star.

Male Mortality From Cancer is Increasing In Great Britain

LONDON—Male mortality from cancer is increasing in England, according to statistics issued by the Registrar General's department.

The standardized rate of mortality for men from cancer is now about equal to that of women, according to the statistics, which say that the figures per 100,000 are 97 and 98 respectively. Before 1914 the cancer mortality rate among men in England was 91 per hundred thousand. The statistics reveal that more men die of cancer in the large towns than in the rural areas.

Living costs in Greece now are the highest they have ever been.

Ancient Tomb Exposed.

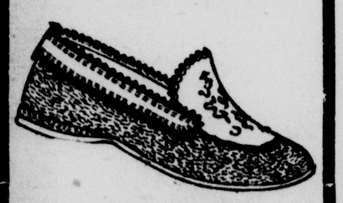

ATHENS—Recent heavy floods in Athens have resulted in the discovery near the outskirts of the city of thirty ancient tombs containing gold ornaments, vases and five mummies.

The aumost importance is attached to the find by archaeologists although it has not yet been ascertained to what epoch the tombs belong.

Rumania has decided that it will not increase any government expense except the salaries of government employes in the coming year.

BATTLING SIKI IS MURDERED

FIVE ARE BURNED TO DEATH IN TENEMENT FIRE

TODAY

Poor, Foolish Ghandi.

She Writes About Cats.

What Sleep Means.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Copyright, 1925.

Foolish Mr. Ghandi, the Hindu leader, who would like to put the British out of India, is again fasting "as a protest." He is so weak that he can hardly speak.

The British viceroy of India, on the other hand, and all the government of Great Britain are eating heartily, and a handful of Englishmen is stil ruling 300,000,000 people in India.

In these days, power belongs to those that eat well and hit hard.

So far as we know, it was always so.

Ghandi is the individual who thought he could help his fellow countrymen to throw off British rule by having them go back to the hand loom and make their own cloth by hand.

What India needs is a leader that will make better looms than the British make, manufacture in India the iron and steel for plows and other things that India needs, put the cheap labor of India to work for the benefit of India, wipe out a few of the unnecessary gods and monstrous idols—and, above all, teach the people to think.

The story and the troubles of the people of India are told in the fact that in 5,000 years of Indian literature the word "liberty" nowhere appears.

The most interesting thing about a cat is its skeleton, most magnificently adjusted mechanism that the mind could conceive. Watch a cat scratch, see her leap from the floor to the table, see the backbone bend. No Damascus blade, no corporation lawyer's argument ever had the amazing elesticity of a cat's backbone.

Cats are useful that kill rats and mice. Ninety per cent unfortunately only kill time or birds. And they carry disease germs, plenty.

The chief medical officer of a great city says, "it is useless to talk about eradicating contagious and infectious diseases of children as long as the children are allowed to play with cats." The cat takes up the disease of the child with which it plays, goes out, calls on another cat, then that other cat carries the disease to some other child.

"The cat will mew, and dog will have his day,' says Shakespeare. He means that you cannot keep a cat from getting out and finding congenial company. When that happens, there is a friendly exchange of views and of microbes.

A $10,000 Persian cat, compelled to stay at home, gets no chance to exchange its scarlet fever germs for some other cat's diphtheria germs. But such cats are few.

About the deaf cat and the cat with odd eyes, we have no fixed opinion. If the cat is deaf, that is probably the fault of the breeder. A cat with one blue eye and one green, or yellow eye, can see as well as any other cat. But cat judges have a right to decide about cats.

A Free Baking Booklet

Some kind of bread is served on the average American table three times a day. The quality of that bread is an important matter. The food value depends on the materials which go into it, whether it is made at home or in the bakery. The Baking Booklet has been planned primarily as a guide in home baking, but through its discussion of materials it offers help also in the choice of commercial baked products.

HINT INCENDIARISM AS FIVE-STORY BUILDING IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

Scores of Tenants, Aroused Without Adequate Warning, are Rushed to New York Streets in Little More Than Underclothing—Taken Care of by Neighbors and in Cafes.

FIREMEN WASH ADJOINING ROOFS TO KEEP BLAZE FROM SPREADING

Rapidity With Which Fire Ate Way May Have Prevented Escape of Other Victims, Firemen Say as They Search Ruins in Belief That More Bodies Will be Found.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Five persons were burned to death early today when flames swept a five-story tenement in East Fourteenth street at the foot of the East river. The fire started at 3 o'clock this morning and was still raging at 6 o'clock.

Scores of tenants, aroused without adequate warning, were rushed to the streets in little more than their underclothing. They were taken care of by neighbors and in several of the all-night cafes in the vicinity.

The fire was fannel by a stiff breeze and firemen washed down the roofs of adjoining buildings to keep the flames from spreading.

The fire marshal and assistant, on the scene investigating the cause of the blaze, indicated their belief that the fire was of incediary origin.

The firemen had just extinguished another fire of only slightly less serious dimensions less than two blocks away when they were notified of the blaze on Fourteenth street.

Bodies Not Identified.

The bodies were not identified. A check-up of the tenants in the house was being made by fire officials and police, but the panic and chaos that prevailed among the survivors of the fire, made such work difficult.

It was believed possible that more bodies would be found in the wreckage.

The rapidity with which the fire spread, crackling up through the five stories of the building and through its roof, may have prevented the escape of other victims.

While the fire still was raging, firemen found two charred bodies on the top floor of the house. A few minutes later a shout came through the smoke and din that two others had been found on the floor below. The body of a child was discovered in the second floor hallway. All were burned beyond recognition.

Train Passenger Loses Sight From Cinder in Eye

James L. Swan, Cleveland, former resident of East Liverpool, had his right eye removed at the Lakeside hospital, Cleveland, recently, as a result of a cinder lodging in it while he was on the train enroute from Florida to Houston, Texas.

When he sought medical attention, the eye was found infected. He returned to his home in Cleveland, where doctors recommended that the eye be removed.

He was discharged from the hospital a few days ago and is now recuperating at his home. He is a brother of Rev. William Swan, of Willoughby.

TRACTION HEAD ROTARY GUEST

Gary Wills Discusses Public Utilities at Noon Luncheon.

"Public Utilities," with special reference to street railways, was the topic of Gary Wills, superintendent of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company, at the luncehon meeting in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. today.

The half way mark was reached today in the Salvation Army's campaign for $3,000, with which to meet the expense of Christmas dinner and winter relief activities.

Collections total $1,505.16, of which $717 was sent in by mail, $532 was collected in the potteries by a committee of workers and $256.16 was obtained through kettles maintained on the downtown street corners.

The kettels will remain on the streets daily until Christmas. Extra kettles are to be sent to the East End and Wellsville a few days preceding the holiday.

Demands for relief this year have ben heavy and additional funds will be needed to care for the work, according to Field Major Joseph Hughes, in charge of the Salvation Army headquarters. Indications are that at least 300 Christmas baskets will be distributed to needy families.

F. C. HICKS, 53, ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN, DEAD, VICTIM OF MAGIC

Acute Dilation of Heart Claims Theatre Patron as he Watches Performance of Magician Thurston.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Federick C. Hicks, alien property custodian and former member of congress from New York, was dead today, the innocent victim of his interest in mysticism and magic.

In a semi-darkened theatre last night, Hicks was watching Thurston, the magician, entertain a brilliant audience with his tricks and almost supernatural effects. He was deeply engrossed. Finally there came the act where the magician seemingly makes the body of a woman float unsupported through the air.

A gurgling sigh broke the stillness of the dimly-lighted theatre. Most of the audience thought it was a part of the performance. The magician, however, had seen a figure slump in a seat in the front rows. He signalled for the lights to go out, quickly directed attendants to the spot and while the house was darkened, they carried the body of the unconscious man to the box office.

A physician pronounced the man dead. Examination of papers in the clothing disclosed that it was the alien property custodian. Death had been caused, the physician said, by acute dilation of the heart. The body was taken to a hospital, and thence to his home.

Hicks had gone to the theater alone.

He took the youth into his machine and rushed him to the Central Clinic hospital, Salem, where he died. His skull was crushed, one leg broken and he was injured internally.

SENEGALESE PRIZE FIGHTER SHOT IN BACK AFTER QUARREL

Trailed From Dance Hall on "Hell's Kitchen" Fringe.

SLAIN ON STREET

One Bullet Punctures Kidney, Other Enters Left Lung.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Battling Siki, celebrated Senegalese boxer, was trailed from a "black and tan" dance hall on the fringe of "Hell's Kitchen" early today, shot twice in the back, and killed. His body was found by a policeman, face down, in the middle of West Forty-First street, in front of an apartment house at No. 350, at the end of a trail of blood leading from a garage at 356.

Wife Identifies Body.

Siki, whose real name was Louis Phail, had been shot at close range. There were powder marks on his clothing. One bullet punctured his kidneys, the other his left lung.

Police promised an arrest shortly. They learned that an hour or so before Siki's body was found, he had had an altercation with a man in a resort frequented by negroes and whites in West 50th street. Two men with whom he had a dispute some time ago were also there.

The slain fighter's body was positively identified by his wife, Lillian. She glanced at the body in West Thirtieth street police station and cried:

"Oh, Louis, my own dear Louis."

Body Found By Policeman.

Siki's body was found by Policeman J. J. Meehan, who knew Siki, and had talked to him a few hours before he was slain. The policeman also found a short barreled .32 calibre pistol, with two bullets fired.

A trail of blood led along the sidewalk in front of the garage to the middle of the street. A short distance away lay Siki's hat.

Siki had only eight cents in his pocket and wore no jewelry. Police scout the theory that he was murdered by bandits.

An enemy who warned him more than a week ago, by means of a note thrust under his door, that he was going to "get him," is being hunted.

CONGRESSIONAL "WET" BLOC OPENS CAMPAIGN TO MODIFY VOLSTEAD ACTS; EDGE OFFERS BEER BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Inaugurating the legislative campaign of the congressional "wet" bloc to modify the Volstead act, Senator Walter E. Edge, Republican, of New Jersey, arose in the senate today and called upon congress to authorize the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer.

Edge flayed the attitude of "bone drys," and declared his bill would end the present era of national lawlessness and drunkenness while bringing into the federal treasury about a billion dollars annually in revenue. National prohibition in its present state, he declared, is "a failure, a crime-breeder and provoked of nation-wide disrespect for all law."

Edge pointed to statistics showing increased arrests for drunkenness, to records of increased insanity, to the "havoc in the government service," and to arrests among enforcing officials, even in the coast guard, in his attack upon the Volstead act.

Assails Prohibition Law

"No one is satisfied with the present law," he declared, "unless it be the bootleggers."

His proposal for permitting 2.75 percent beer, Edge said, would "help make the Volstead act honest," curtail the supplies of bootleggers, decrease the demand for poisonous concoctions, minimize the transformation of private homes into distilleries, reduce the growing scandal of national law defiance, close illegal dives and salvage human wreckage in addition to producing tremendous sums of federal revenue.

"More than six years ago, the now notorious Volstead act became a law," Edge began. "No statute ever enacted in the history of the world has been more generally violated or more universally condemned.

"Everybody, whatever may have been the original view as to the wisdom of this legislation, agrees something must be done and at once.

"Newspapers and magazines emphasize increasing violations, the disregard for law and the attending national disgrace of existing conditions. The world glibly discusses our failure. An unbiased and frank consideration of this situation is "imperative."

Opposes Restoration of Saloons.

Edge declared he felt the legalization of 2.75 percent beer was the only solution available to congress. He attacked any plan for restoring saloons and declared he did not advocate "light wines" in his bill because he felt such a proposal would be unconstitutional.

"If what I propose fails to bring the relief demanded—and I frankly admit in advance no complete relief is possible without amending the constitution—then at least the country will have a clearer understanding of the steps which must be taken if America is to reestablish her position as a community of law-abiding citizens.

Edge called attention to church surveys which showed "an increase in intoxication and an appalling condition of violation of the law." Real friends of prohibition, he added, have admitted the Volstead act is a failure.

Bootlegging Profitable, He Says.

"A large proportion of citizens of every class violate the law without the slightest compunction," he declared. "It is indeed unusual when a number of men, and frequently women, gather together that inquiry is not at once made as to who has a supply. Conventions and conferences develop improvised bar rooms. Clubs and societies all over the country have their special rendezvous and in no way confined to any class.

"To shut our eyes to these facts is simply to dodge or evade the truth.

"The occasional closing of restaurants and public places defying the law is simply a gesture bringing but little, if any, lasting results. If one is closed, two are usually opened. The legitimate restaurant or cafe obeying the law is compelled to shut down, as it cannot meet the illegal competition.

"Bootlegging has become the most profitable of businesses."

BATTLING SIKI IS MURDERED

Poor, Foolish Ghandi.

She Writes About Cats.

What Sleep Means.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Copyright, 1925.

Foolish Mr. Ghandi, the Hindu leader, who would like to put the British out of India, is again fasting "as a protest." He is so weak that he can hardly speak.

The British viceroy of India, on the other hand, and all the government of Great Britain are eating heartily, and a handful of Englishmen is still ruling 300,000,000 people in India.

In these days, power belongs to those that eat well and hit hard.

So far as we know, it was always so. Ghandi is the individual who thought he could help his fellow countrymen to throw off British rule by having them go back to the hand loom and make their own cloth by hand.

What India needs is a leader that will make better looms than the British make, manufacture in India the iron and steel for plows and other things that India needs, put the cheap labor of India to work for the benefit of India, wipe out a few of the unnecessary gods and monstrous idols—and, above all, teach the people to think.

The story and the troubles of the people of India are told in the fact that in 5,000 years of Indian literature the word "liberty" nowhere appears.

The most interesting thing about a cat is its skeleton, most magnificently adjusted mechanism that the mind could conceive. Watch a cat scratch, see her leap from the floor to the table, see the backbone bend. No Damascus blade, no corporation lawyer's argument ever had the amazing elesticity of a cat's backbone.

Cats are useful that kill rats and mice. Ninety per cent unfortunately only kill time or birds. And they carry disease germs, plenty.

The chief medical officer of a great city says, "it is useless to talk about eradicating contagious and infectious diseases of children as long as the children are allowed to play with cats." The cat takes up the disease of the child with which it plays, goes out, calls on another cat, then that other cat carries the disease to some other child.

"The cat will mew, and dog will have his day,' says Shakespeare. He means that you cannot keep a cat from getting out and finding congenial company. When that happens, there is a friendly exchange of views and of microbes.

A $10,000 Persian cat, compelled to stay at home, gets no chance to exchange its scarlet fever germs for some other cat's diphtheria germs. But such cats are few.

About the deaf cat and the cat with odd eyes, we have no fixed opinion. If the cat is deaf, that is probably the fault of the breeder. A cat with one blue eye and one green, or yellow eye, can see as well as any other cat. But cat judges have a right to decide about cats.

HINT INCENDIARISM AS FIVE-STORY BUILDING IS SWEPT BY FLAMES

Scores of Tenants, Aroused Without Adequate Warning, are Rushed to New York Streets in Little More Than Underclothing—Taken Care of by Neighbors and in Cafes.

FIREMEN WASH ADJOINING ROOFS TO KEEP BLAZE FROM SPREADING

Rapidity With Which Fire Ate Way May Have Prevented Escape of Other Victims, Firemen Say as They Search Ruins in Belief That More Bodies Will be Found.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Five persons were burned to death early today when flames swept a five-story tenement in East Fourteenth street at the foot of the East river. The fire started at 3 o'clock this morning and was still raging at 6 o'clock.

Scores of tenants, aroused without adequate warning, were rushed to the streets in little more than their underclothing. They were taken care of by neighbors and in several of the all-night cafes in the vicinity.

The fire was fanned by a stiff breeze and firemen washed down the roofs of adjoining buildings to keep the flames from spreading.

The fire marshal and assistant, on the scene investigating the cause of the blaze, indicated their belief that the fire was of incediary origin.

The firemen had just extinguished another fire of only slightly less serious dimensions less than two blocks away when they were notified of the blaze on Fourteenth street.

Bodies Not Identified.

The bodies were not identified. A check-up of the tenants in the house was being made by fire officials and police, but the panic and chaos that prevailed among the survivors of the fire, made such work difficult.

It was believed possible that more bodies would be found in the wreckage.

The rapidity with which the fire spread, crackling up through the five stories of the building and through its roof, may have prevented the escape of other victims.

While the fire still was raging, firemen found two charred bodies on the top floor of the house. A few minultes later a shout came through the smoke and din that two others had been found on the floor below. The body of a child was discovered in the second floor hallway. All were burned beyond recognition.

When he sought medical attention, the eye was found infected. He returned to his home in Cleveland, where doctors recommended that the eye be removed.

He was discharged from the hospital a few days ago and is now recuperating at his home. He is a brother of Rev. William Swan, of Willoughby.

2,209 STUDENTS AT MORGANTOWN

Twenty-three states and three foreign countries are represented in the student enrollment at the state university. Porto Rico, the Philippine islands and the Dominion of Canada are the foreign countries represented. These figures prove that West Virginia university is not a state institution.

The total enrollment is 2,209. Of this number 1,954 are residents of West Virginia, 241 are students who live in other states and 14 live outside the United States.

Pennsylvania leads the list of outside students enrolled with a total of 143, Ohio comes second with 27, and New York third with 20.

Idaho, Missouri, Vermont, Minnesota, Rhode Island, Colorado, New Hampshire and the District of Columbia each have one student enrolled. Twelve from Porto Rico are enrolled and one from both the Dominion of Canada and the Philippines.

A cattle shed costing $2,500 is being built at the state university dairy farm. The building is being erected at the rear of the main building and is 150 by 30 feet. Space for 50 cows will be furnished in the new structure. A supply of new equipment will make the barn one of the best of its kind in the state.

THOUSANDS DIE

Vital statistics gathered throughout the country show that thousands die annually through carelessness and failure to take the proper care of the stomach and bowels Medical practitioners urge the proper medical treatment for even minor cases of indigestion, constipation, etc., arising from disordered conditions of the stomach It has been found not entirely necessary for strict diet in such cases where Ka-di-ok, the wonderful laxative stomach tonic and system builder is used. Ka-di-ok is highly recommended in all cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, constipation, kidney and liver ailments nervousness, headache, rheumatism,, etc., as thousands have used it in this and other states and testify as to its merit in such conditions.

Mr Wm H. Stevens, Route 5 Fairmont W Va, had stomach trouble so bad that he was unable to do his work on the farm. He took a treatment of Ka-di-ok and his troubles were removed. He says he now feels like a new man, never felt better in his life, can do his farm work with ease and pride, and personally thanks the Ka-di-ok representative for the good Ka-di-ok has done him.

Ka-di-ok is sold in East Liverpool at Mathews' Cut Rate drug store.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR PUM NORRIS

TWENTY-FOUR.

On no occasion that he remembered had his sister ever visited him in his office at the plant, and Noble Harwood naturally was surprised when Mrs. Brent Daly was announced by his secretary. What did she want? He had not seen her since his wedding day, and he had had nothing to say to her since that evening when she let him know how she felt about his marriage to "this-this infant." He remembered how red-hot with rage her face was when she called Laurel "this-this infant."

"Show her in immediately,' he said to the secretary, and went to the door to receive her.

"Good morning Jean. How are Brent and the little ones?"

"Very well, Noble," she sand, indifferently, as she took the chair he offered.

Her brother sat down and regarded her expectantly. Very evidently something was weighing heavily upon her mind.

The visitor opened her purse and drew forth a folded envelope.

"I thought you might be interested in the contents of this letter,' she began. She did not offer it to him. "Mary is coming home."

"To Central City?" The news was disturbing.

"Yes, of course."

"Why do you say, 'of course?'"

"You might have expected that she would."

"She was always complaining about living here, and wanting to live in New York, or London, or anywhere but Central City."

"Yes, I know." There was a trace of a smile in Mrs. Daly's countenance. "But you might have expected that as soon as she learned you were married again, she would return to Central City."

Noble smiled grimly. "Yes, I suppose so. That would be like Mary."

"And then her children are here," Mrs. Daly suggested.

Noble's eyes grew hard. "SHE never cared anything about them."

"Nevertheless, they are a convenient excuse."

"Dammit, Jean, I wish there were a way to prevent her from coming here.

"Ah, Noble, you would deprive Central City of its greatest thrill in years —the spectacle of seeing the first Mrs. Noble Harwood meet the second Mrs. Noble Harwood."

Anger appeared in Noble's face. "Don't be vulgar, Jean!"

It was Mrs. Daly's turn to smile grimly. "It's a little drama you arranged yourself."

Noble Harwood got up and went to a window to gaze out through the smoke of many funnels at the workings of this huge plan. Damn! A line in a letter written to him by his first wife after their divorce came to his mind and impressed itself upon his thinking: "You are an OLD fool, not a young one. . . . ." It was that 'old' that she had so painstakingly underscored that annoyed him. She always laughed at his tonics and exercises, his efforts to keep young.

He went back to his desk. "Jean, you've got to help me with this. I want you to go to New York to meet her. Tell her that———."

"Now Noble! You ought to realize that nothing I can say or do will influence her. I'm YOUR sister. And resorting to that wouldn't help anyway. Noble, you're a clever business man, but you always were a fool when it came to women. Mother, Mary, your daughters, and now Laurel Todd."

"Well, what would YOU do?" He was chewing a cigar.

"There's nothing TO DO but face the music. IF your conscience doesn't hurt you, why worry?"

Noble Harwood sat down again. "I don't care, Jean, except that I don't want her stirring up trouble with the children."

"You haven't any doubt that they will side with her?"

He looked up at her, suprised. "Why———."

"You lost all claims to their sympathy when you married Laurel."

"Let's leave Laurel out of it," he said calmly. "I think the children will decide according to the right."

"Of course,' Mrs. Daily observed, enigmatically. She arose. "I didn't know whether you would get the news otherwise, dear brother, and I thought you ought to be prepared," she said, apologetically.

"I'm glad you did." His countenance failed to bear out the assertion.

For some minutes after she left, he walked savagely back and forth in his office, like a lion in a cage. He wondered if he ought to tell Laurel.

There was, however, no need for him to be disturbed on this score. Laurel knew the news before he came in to dinner. There was an item in the society column of the Daily Times:

"The former Mrs. Noble Harwood will sail from Havre this week on the S. S. Paris to return to Central City for a visit according to a letter received here today by friends. She has been touring Europe since her departure from Central City, more than a year ago. Recently she had been at Deauville, where she had a cottage."

(To be continued.)

George McManus Comedy Booked by Ceramic Theatre.

"Bringing Up Father in Gay New York," the latest George McManus comedy sensation, based on the famous cartoons of the same title will be the attraction at the Ceramic theatre Saturday, matinee and night. This exceptionally diverting offering which seems to be as permanent an institution as the White House in Washington, D. C., is said to be better than ever which means that the admirers and followers of the beloved characters, Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore, et al, are in for a fine old time. All the favorites will appear in the flesh, of course, and their antics, aided by a bevy of old and new friends, are sure to find receptive response. The entertainment will be divided into two acts and six scenes with interspersed novelties, surprises, innovations and other ingredients not to be found in other contributions boasting of laugh-compelling qualities. Nat Le Ray is responsible for the book, while the jingles and tunes have been supplied by Seymour Furth whose capabilities as a composer requires little introduction.

Drops in prices of commodities and raising of wage levels in Germany have proved ineffective in stopping wage disputes.

Said to operate at the highest pressure of any submarine cable in the world, the new 50,000 volt line from Sweden to Denmark has three conductors each of 95 square millimeters cross section.

Christmas Trees Are Saved

Here is good news. Christmas trees are a crop, harvested annually and then renewed or replaced before the next harvest. That is an end for which tree-lovers and conservationists have long striven. They have wanted to preserve the beautiful and happy Christmas tree custom without destroying the evergreen forests of the land. They have argued and preached and warned and advised—and now the American Tree association says that their work has succeeded.

According to the association, which exists for the purpose of protecting American trees, cutting for the holiday trade is done selectively these days. Trees are taken here and there in such a way as really to prune or clean out coniferous forests, giving new growth a better chance in the struggle for survival. With these methods, the same forest each succeeding year will yield a goodly crop of trees suitable for the purpose of Santa Claus and his friends.

Furthermore, commercial cultivation of Christmas trees has developed rapidly to a profitable business and may in time do away with the general use of uncultivated trees.

There still remains the occasional individual vandal who goes into his neighbor's woods or the small evergreen corner privately owned, and steals a tree. Something severe needs to be done to him, but that is a separate problem.

Played To Death

When "Red" Grange started on his professional football career, an enthusiastic editor gave him credit for "knowing enough to pay a manager half the gate receipts to do his thinking for him." Subsequent developments raise a question as to the quality of that thinking.

"Red," as millions of newspaper readers know, has slumped badly in his playing. And it doesn't seem his fault. He has tried to carry out an impossible schedule that required him to play the most strenuous of athletic games almost every day for five weeks. No human being could stand up under the strain and play well to the end. "Red" has been worked to death—or played to death.

It is riding a good horse to death. It is also killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. There is loss of money, to player and manager both, in such a policy. The public comes to feel cheated, and loses faith and interest in the hero.

Still, it's probably just as well. The tired, disillusioned player may go back to college and finish his education. The public may turn to other types of heroes. Hero-worshippers may not always make demi-gods of athletes, in preference to those of more substantial achievement.

Scenery And Exercise

Lincoln Ellsworth, the young Arctic explorer who won fame with Amundsen, and plans another dash with him to the Pole, has just been visiting the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. And as might be expected of so vigorous a person, he did not confine himself to mere words of admiration.

"Every day while here at the canyon," he writes, "I have set myself the task of tramping on foot from the rim down to the river and back. It is a drop of one mile in elevation, but seven miles by the trail. I find the effort, however, well worth while; for only those who have tramped amid the majestic scenery of lofty mountains understand the mental satisfaction and keenness that comes from a healthily tired body."

There are two things in this striking passage that ought to hit home to a lot of our young sheiks and lounge lizards. And for that matter, to a lot of middle-aged folks of both sexes who find themselves growing puffy and stodgy.

There is the lure of mountains, with its lift to mind and body. Many a person, unaccustomed to much exertion, has been surprised to find the ease with which, after a little hardening, he can tramp and climb. There is something in the elevation that seems to pour vigor into anyone of sound heart and lungs, so that in the pure air of the hills, if he does not venture too high, he can accomplish feats impossible at low altitudes.

There is also that phrase which delivers a lecture in itself—"a healthily tired body," with the "mental satisfaction and keenness" that it brings. The most obvious defect of present-day life is that so many of us end the day with unhealthily tired nerves instead of bodies pleasantly dulled by wholesome exercise, setting the mind free, promoting sound digestion and inviting refreshing sleep.

It's queer what simple problems scientists will worry and puzzle over. Here's Johns Hopkins university experimenting to find out why women keep men waiting, when any husband can tell you that it's because they are never ready on time.

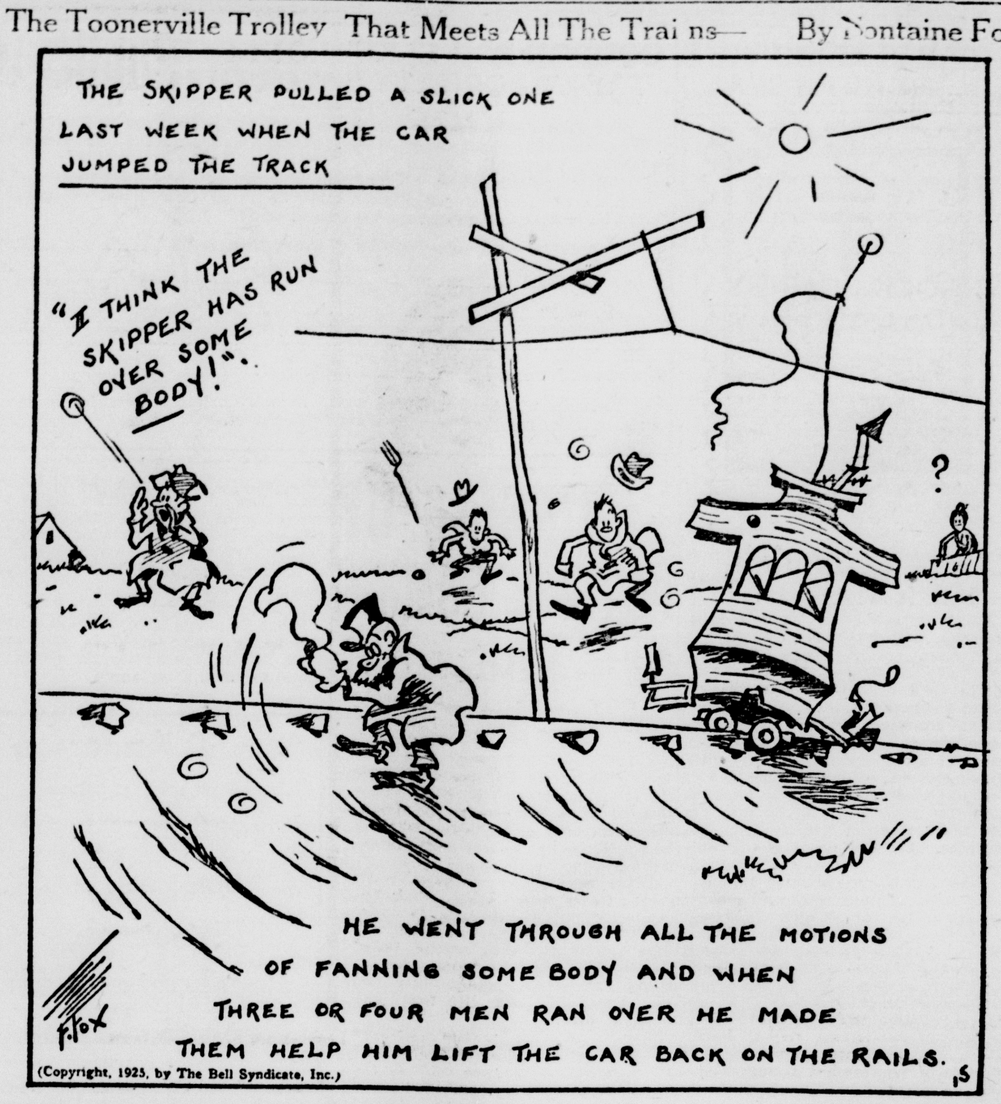

Secretary Hoover says the "war on waste" is winning. That's largely because there's less waste on war.

People used to be ashamed of mortgages, but now most folks seem to thrive on them.

The federal budget calls for $3,494,308.44, and a mere taxpayer naturally wonders what Uncle Sam expects to do with the 44 cents.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Manhattan is so overwhelmingly big natives pass its wonders as casually as they breathe. In a club the other day it was discovered only one of fourteen New Yorkers knew the significance of a huge new building they pass daily on West Fortieth street.

It lifts its fragile gracefulness to the sky in black and gold and at night flames of light dance about its top. It is supposed to represent a lump of coal. For a quarter of a century millions passed St. Thomas' church on Fifth avenue with a glow of admiration.

Yet it was only a year ago a pedestrian—an outlander incidentally—discovered a roguish sculptor had twisted the lover's knot, placed so symbolically over the bride's entrance to the churlh, into the most unromantic of all symbols—the dollar sign.

Thousands have passed the 70-foot-high Cleopatra's Needle in Central Park without knowing it was presented by a Khedive of Egypt and transported to New York, through generosity of one of the Vanderbilts, at a cost of $100,000.

I have never found an uptown New Yorker who has noticed the little Jewish cemetery on the South Side of Chatham Square. A reporter talked to every person he could find in a certain block on Pearl street, and not one knew it once housed, the famous Captain Kidd.

People think of the Woolworth building as the largest in the world. It is the tallest, but the largest is the Equitable building at 120 Broadway. Most of these buildings are skyscrapers within themselves—the Terminal building on Cortlandt street, for instance, has a battery of 39 elevators.

In a building in midtown there are three barber shops catering almost exclusively to tenants, and yet I venture not one of a thousand natives knows its location.

Two years ago a popular fiction writer suddenly struck a snag of inaction. He could not write simple sentences without involuntary elisions and transpositions, which happened even with the spelling of ordinary words like "the" and "and." Sometimes he spelled backward, and he was neither drinking nor using drugs. He believed thoroughly he was written out, after 20 years of working at his profession. In the midst of this misery and travail he carried on. His friends, nor even his wife, knew his condition. Six months ago he was riding on a train and fell in with a stranger who mentioned him by name. "I get a kick out of his stuff, but never see it any more," he said. That night the writer sat at his tpewriter and completed a story, which immediately sold. He has been selling his stuff since. "Perhaps all I needed was a word of encouragement," he said.

Restaurant hold-ups are such nightly affairs safety vault boxes are in demand. It is said jewelry establishments suffered a slump in disposing valuable gems until the situation was in hand. One New York woman displayed remarkable presence of mind in a robbery. When robbers pounced into the cafe she slipped three huge diamond rings off her fingers into her cup of coffee and sat placidly as the mauraders did their stuff.

There is a story of a stolid Britisher who sat slightly spiffed at his table during a hold up. Women were fainting and men grew pale. The Britisher ate on, unconcerned. When the bandits came to him they demanded his wallet. "Bad form," he mumbled "to disturb a gentleman eating. Go away until I finish my soup." It so disconcerted them they left him unharmed. "Rum sort of chaps, robbers," he muttered, continuing his soup.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Stone Mountain Memorial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 15.—Work on the Stone Mountain Memorial has again started—this time under the direction of Augustus Lukeman, who was appointed sculptor to take the place of Gutzon Borglum. It is planned that the work will proceed without further interruption until the memorial is completed. Mr. Lukeman is a Virginian by birth who has lived for many years in the north. It is felt by many that because he is a native southerner he may have a greater sympathy and understanding in his work than one who has not a background of southern traditions.

It is, of course, well known how after planning for years this great memorial and then finally getting the work actually under way, Borglum clashed with the committee in charge. The outcome of this was his dismissal and his subsequent smashing of his working models.

Much discussion followed. Members of the memorial association were outraged and declared he had destroyed property belonging to them. On the other hand, many of Borglum's brother artists upheld him in his claim that the artist is within his rights in destroying his working models. They said that it would be practically impossible for one artist to take up the uncompleted work of another, and further, that it was doubtful whether any one would undertake such a task in the case of a living artist. There have been cases where the original artist has died before completing his work and some one else has gone on with it. Working models are not always entirely accurate, and it is claimed that it is next to impossible for the man taking up the work to know exactly what the first had in mind.

After all this hullabaloo and bitter controversy had simmered down a fresh start was made in the enterprise. Mr. Lukeman was selected as the new sculptor and submitted entirely new plans. These are said by some to surpass the idea of Borglum, although this is a matter of personal opinion. One of the principal differences appears that whereas Borglum planned to show the army at rest, Lukeman shows it on the march. The work in the central group which had been done by Borglum is to be utilized.

It has been said that in view of the fact that the Stone Mountain project will become a national memorial—one to which the entire nation will point with pride—it was felt by many that some recognition should be given to the soldiers who fought to maintain the Union. Mr. Lukeman has done this by showing in the foreground the figure of a Union soldieer with that of a Confederate soldier, both of whom had died for their espoused causes. Perhaps Mr. Lukeman could better do this because of his southern birth than one who had been born in the north. His motives could scarcely be misinterpreted.

A Woman's Idea.

The idea of using Stone Mountain as a memorial to those who fought for the "lost cause," originated in 1915 with Mrs. C. Helen Plane, the widow of a Confederate officer. Through her efforts the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association was organized. The site of the memorial was a gift of Samuel H. Venable and his two nieces. When it is finally completed this memorial will be unlike anything else in the world.

Aside from the actual carving on the side of the mountain there is to be a Temple of Fame. Inside of this there will be cut from the stone wall 13 columns representing the 13 states of the Confederacy. The spaces between these columns will be smoothed to a polished panel and each of these will be dedicated to a southern state. On each will be inscribed the names that belong to the history of that particular state.

The women who aided the Confederate cause are not to be overlooked in this temple. They will be represented by a symbolic figure carved out of a huge block of granite which is to be left undetached from the floor.

There will also be a lagoon and a museum. The former will be 290 feet long and 125 feet wide and will front the Memorial Hall at the base of the mountain. At the side of the lagoon, adjoining the base of the mountain, two flights of granite stairs will ascend to the colonnade across the front of Memorial Hall. One of these will contain 13 steps representing the states of the confederacy, and the other will be a flight of 48 steps, representing the present number of states in the Union.

The supreme token of reconciliation between the north and the south is believed to be in the act of congress which authorized the director of the mint to make five million memorial half dollars for completing the memorial. It is said to be the first time in the history of the world that a nation has conferred honor upon a defeated enemy.

Unique Memorial Coin.

The coin itself is unique in several ways. It is the only money ever issued by the United States government to bear an equestrian figure, and it is the only money bearing the likeness of purely military figures. Also it bears the inscription "Memorial to the Valor of the Soldiers of the South." Surely it seems that the issuance of this coin by the government should alone cause the many old-time southerners who are still fighting the war to declare peace and call off hostilities.

The manner in which these coins are to be sold is interesting. They were distributed throughout the states, the quota for the south being 2,500,000, and the remaining 2,500,000 to be sold throughout the rest of the country. The quota for each state was calculated on the basis of the white population and bank deposits. Arizona was the first to complete her quota.

The governors of the 13 southern states held a conference and decided upon the plan of inaugurating what is known as the Girl Feature contest. Under this plan the services of the girls of the state are enlisted in the sale of the coins. The 13 girls of each state who sell the greatest number will be invited to attend a ball which is to be held in Atlanta in January. Their expenses will be paid and it is guaranteed that they will be accorded traditional southern hospitality.

The individual cities and localities have their own campaigns in this contest. In Washington there was held a huge mass meeting, the central attraction of which was Al Jolson. There is also to be a ball at one of the leading hotels. It is to be known as the Blue and Gray ball, the Blues being headed by Mrs. Butler, the wife of the senator from Massachusetts, and the Grays by Mrs. Robert E. Lee. All of which further indicates the combined interest of the north and south in this great memorial.

It is interesting to note that in one instance at least the north led the south in the campaign for raising funds. The director of the Girls' Feature contest in Washington was most anxious to obtain a picture showing a prominent Republican woman and a Democratic woman together buying coins. She thought of course there would be no difficulty in obtaining the Democrat. But she was wrong. As she puts it, "A Republican instantly volunteered but I had a terrible time getting a Democrat." Things do take unexpected turns!

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Stone Mountain Memorial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 15.—Work on the Stone Mountain Memorial has again started—this time under the direction of Augustus Lukeman, who was appointed sculptor to take the place of Gutzon Borglum. It is planned that the work will proceed without further interruption until the memorial is completed. Mr. Lukeman is a Virginian by birth who has lived for many years in the north. It is felt by many that because he is a native southerner he may have a greater sympathy and understanding in his work than one who has not a background of southern traditions.

It is, of course, well known how after planning for years this great memorial and then finally getting the work actually under way, Borglum clashed with the committee in charge. The outcome of this was his dismissal and his subsequent smashing of his working models.

Much discussion followed. Members of the memorial association were outraged and declared he had destroyed property belonging to them. On the other hand, many of Borglum's brother artists upheld him in his claim that the artist is within his rights in destroying his working models. They said that it would be practically impossible for one artist to take up the uncompleted work of another, and further, that it was doubtful whether any one would undertake such a task in the case of a living artist. There have been cases where the original artist has died before completing his work and some one else has gone on with it. Working models are not always entirely accurate, and it is claimed that it is next to impossible for the man taking up the work to know exactly what the first had in mind.

After all this hullabaloo and bitter controversy had simmered down a fresh start was made in the enterprise. Mr. Lukeman was selected as the new sculptor and submitted entirely new plans. These are said by some to surpass the idea of Borglum, although this is a matter of personal opinion. One of the principal differences appears that whereas Borglum planned to show the army at rest, Lukeman shows it on the march. The work in the central group which had been done by Borglum is to be utilized.

It has been said that in view of the fact that the Stone Mountain project will become a national memorial—one to which the entire nation will point with pride—it was felt by many that some recognition should be given to the soldiers who fought to maintain the Union. Mr. Lukeman has done this by showing in the foreground the figure of a Union soldieer with that of a Confederate soldier, both of whom had died for their espoused causes. Perhaps Mr. Lukeman could better do this because of his southern birth than one who had been born in the north. His motives could scarcely be misinterpreted.

A Woman's Idea.

The idea of using Stone Mountain as a memorial to those who fought for the "lost cause," originated in 1915 with Mrs. C. Helen Plane, the widow of a Confederate officer. Through her efforts the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association was organized. The site of the memorial was a gift of Samuel H. Venable and his two nieces. When it is finally completed this memorial will be unlike anything else in the world.

Aside from the actual carving on the side of the mountain there is to be a Temple of Fame. Inside of this there will be cut from the stone wall 13 columns representing the 13 states of the Confederacy. The spaces between these columns will be smoothed to a polished panel and each of these will be dedicated to a southern state. On each will be inscribed the names that belong to the history of that particular state.

The women who aided the Confederate cause are not to be overlooked in this temple. They will be represented by a symbolic figure carved out of a huge block of granite which is to be left undetached from the floor.

There will also be a lagoon and a museum. The former will be 290 feet long and 125 feet wide and will front the Memorial Hall at the base of the mountain. At the side of the lagoon, adjoining the base of the mountain, two flights of granite stairs will ascend to the colonnade across the front of Memorial Hall. One of these will contain 13 steps representing the states of the confederacy, and the other will be a flight of 48 steps, representing the present number of states in the Union.

The supreme token of reconciliation between the north and the south is believed to be in the act of congress which authorized the director of the mint to make five million memorial half dollars for completing the memorial. It is said to be the first time in the history of the world that a nation has conferred honor upon a defeated enemy.

Unique Memorial Coin.

The coin itself is unique in several ways. It is the only money ever issued by the United States government to bear an equestrian figure, and it is the only money bearing the likeness of purely military figures. Also it bears the inscription "Memorial to the Valor of the Soldiers of the South." Surely it seems that the issuance of this coin by the government should alone cause the many old-time southerners who are still fighting the war to declare peace and call off hostilities.

The manner in which these coins are to be sold is interesting. They were distributed throughout the states, the quota for the south being 2,500,000, and the remaining 2,500,000 to be sold throughout the rest of the country. The quota for each state was calculated on the basis of the white population and bank deposits. Arizona was the first to complete her quota.

The governors of the 13 southern states held a conference and decided upon the plan of inaugurating what is known as the Girl Feature contest. Under this plan the services of the girls of the state are enlisted in the sale of the coins. The 13 girls of each state who sell the greatest number will be invited to attend a ball which is to be held in Atlanta in January. Their expenses will be paid and it is guaranteed that they will be accorded traditional southern hospitality.

The individual cities and localities have their own campaigns in this contest. In Washington there was held a huge mass meeting, the central attraction of which was Al Jolson. There is also to be a ball at one of the leading hotels. It is to be known as the Blue and Gray ball, the Blues being headed by Mrs. Butler, the wife of the senator from Massachusetts, and the Grays by Mrs. Robert E. Lee. All of which further indicates the combined interest of the north and south in this great memorial.

It is interesting to note that in one instance at least the north led the south in the campaign for raising funds. The director of the Girls' Feature contest in Washington was most anxious to obtain a picture showing a prominent Republican woman and a Democratic woman together buying coins. She thought of course there would be no difficulty in obtaining the Democrat. But she was wrong. As she puts it, "A Republican instantly volunteered but I had a terrible time getting a Democrat." Things do take unexpected turns!

Stylish "Bobs"

Easy to Keep Thick, Wavy, Lustrous

Girls! Try this! When combing and brushing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can dress your hair immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy, an abundance of gleamy, wavy hair, sparkling with life, incomparably soft, fresh, youthful.

Besides beautifying the hair, a 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" from any drug or toilet counter will do wonders, particularly if the hair is dry, thin, brittle, faded or streaked with gray from constant curling and waving which burn the color, lustre and very life from any woman's hair.

A word to the wives

—not forgetting the mothers and sweethearts! Here's some honest advice on what to give the man who smokes . . . Prince Albert pipe tobacco! Nothing could make more of a hit with a smoker than good old P. A.

The handsome pound crystal-glass humidor with the sponge-moistener top will carry the joy of Christmas morning far into the new year. Every cool, fragrant pipeful will bring new pleasure—and everlasting gratitude for your excellent judgment.

Then there are the pound and half-pound tin humidors for the smoking-table at home, the desk at the office, the work-bench. More important than the containers (good-looking as they are) is the tobacco that's in them . . . Prince Albert, the most enjoyable smoke mortal man ever knew.

The pound crystal-glass humidor is especially arrayed in Christmas clothes. A space is provided for writing "To....." and "From....." No further wrapping needed. Convenient! No matter what the size or amount, give Prince Albert. You cannot do better!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Look at the U. S. revenue stamp—there are TWO full ounces in every tin.

OHIO JUSTICE COURT PLEDGES JURY TRIALS

Zanesville Prohibition Officer Defines Stand in Signed Statement.

LAW, HE SAYS

Calls Upon Other Magistrates to Follow His Lead.

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 15.—Daniel H. Stires, justice of the peace of South Zanesville, and one of the prohibition enforcement officials in Ohio, issued a signed statement today, guaranteeing every offender in his court a jury trial. Justice Stiers' statement as follows:

"As a believer in constitutional law I shall hereafter grant the right of trial by jury to all persons brought before me. The supreme court has tried to indicate to all of us justices that this is what we should do. I think it has tried to tell us that we should be very particular to see that all persons get all their constitutional rights. I do not think the court could mean to give the people part of their rights and withhold the remainder.

"The court did not go as far as it might in its ruling, however, even judges of the supreme court are human and maybe they will do better next time if we justices back them up and give them encouragement.

"I call on all justices in Ohio to follow my lead in helping to restore the rights of the people. Let us be dominated by the spirit of July fourth 1776."

E. ROCHESTER SAFE CRACKED

Yeggs, However, Make Dry Haul in Warehouse.

Yeggs blew the safe in the Harsh and Elton warehouse at East Rochester some time between Saturday night and Monday morning, but found the safe empty, it developed today.

The attempted robbery was discovered when the warehouse was opened, and Sheriff Wright was notified. The owners say that the door on the safe was not locked but the culprits evidently made no attempt to turn the handle before lighting the fuse.

The Charles Swearingen general store at Hanoverton, five miles east of East Rochester, was also looted over the week-end. Women's wearing apparel, canned goods, etc., valued at between $150 and $175, and about $4 in change was taken. Entrance was made by forcing open the back door of the establishment.

The authorities believe both jobs to have been perpetrated by local talent.

200 Houses Razed, Two Persons Killed, 20 Hurt in Quake

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Two hundred houses were completely destroyed, two persons were killed and 20 injured in severe earthquakes that shook Khorrassam in northern Persia on Sunday, according to an Allahabad dispatch to the Central News today.

way executives in attempting to place the lines on a paying basis in the face of the competition offered by motor bus lines and automobiles. He said that street railway financiers must invest between $4 and $5 for each dollar of anticipated annual revenue, which means one turn-over every four or five years. Taxes also impose a heavy burden on the companies, seven cents out of each dollar going into government coffers.

TODAY

As to the pretty little poem, describing a charming lady resting in a big arm chair, with a cat for companion, all we can say is:

At 18, fair lady, try a handsome young man sitting close to your chair telling you how wonderful you are.

At 25, try a little baby standing beside the chair and learning to take its first few steps.

At 70, try a grandchild sitting on either side of you in the big chair while you read a fairy story.

You will find the young man, new baby, or grandchildren a considerable improvement on the fluffiest Persian cat that ever lapped up cream and never caught a mouse.

The scientific committee that allowed a body of students to go 60 hours without sleep—a crime against the students, but perhaps that doesn't matter—reports that sleep has both length and depth. One man in five hours of deep sleep may store up as much rest as another in 10 hours.

The learned committee also suggests, about 10,000 miles wide of the mark, that sleep may be only "a form of intoxication, due to storing of poison in the system."

If we could get rid of our poisons as fast as we develop them, say the wise men, we might get along without sleep.

That is scientific bosh. Sleep is to a human being what the time spent in recharging is to an electric battery. We use up our nervous and physical powers in walking hours, and make up the loss in sleep. The very young, in constant movement, need much sleep.

The adult in his prime, less active, needs less sleep, but plenty. The old man in good health needs little. The very old man leads a life that is between sleeping and waking.

"Snooze" Kinneard And Orange Blossoms Appear at Strand

Jack "Snooze" Kinneard, protege of "Red" Mack, assisted by his Orange Blossom company of musical comedy stars, opened a two-weeks' engagement at the Strand theatre, Monday.

This is Kinneard's third visit to East Liverpool, and, as was the case of his two previous visits, standing room was at a premium Monday evening.

The offering for the first half of the week is "My Panama Girl," one of the big shows which was presented during the company's first visit to East Liverpool last spring. "Snooze," a show in himself, keeps the audience in an uproar during the whole performance. The comedian is assisted by a half score of other principals and a real beauty chorus, who entertain with catchy song hits and clever dance steps.

Attractive stage settings are used by the company. The costumes are pretty.

The photoplay offering for the first half of the week is "A White Sin."

The bill to be presented during the last three days of this week is "Pretty Papa." This is one of Kinneard's newest shows.

F. C. Hicks Dies

His wife and daughter were prostrated at the news of his death.

Hicks was 53 years old, and a native of Westbury, L. I. He served four successive terms in congress from his home district, resigning at the close of the 67th congress to practice law. He was appointed alien property custodian by President Coolidge last April, succeeding Thomas W. Miller.

During the last campaign he was in charge of Republican Eastern headquarters in New York.

Mrs. Hicks and a daughter, Georgiana, survive. Funeral services, not yet completed, probably will be held at Westbury.

'Red' Grange Will Make His Movie Debut In California

Phantom of Gridiron Will Act Story of His Own Life — From Iceman to Millionaire.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15. — "Red" Grange, phantom of the gridiron, will make his motion picture debut in California.

C. C. Pyle, manager of the famous football player, announced here today the former Illinois star will come to Hollywood March 1 to don grease paint and cavort before the clicking cameras.

"The Arrow Pictures Corporation, which has deposited a check for $300,000 in a Champaign, Ills., bank as the minimum guarantee for Grange's first picture, plans to film it in New York, but as work must be started March 1, Grange will come to Hollywood where the weather is pleasant and outdoor scenes may be taken at any time," Pyle said.

Grange's initial screen appearance will find him playing a role he knows better than any.

He will merely act the story of his own life—from iceman to millionaire.

The scenario which is being written for Grange, according to Pyle, will picture the redhead as a struggling youth in college. He will be the football star, campus hero.

But after all just the average college boy.

Then presto. The big climax. A modern Aladdin in the form of professional football contracts or something almost as golden will flash across the screen. And in the end, of course, "Red" will marry the daughter of the banker in the quaint, old college town where he once had to get up so early in the morning to peddle ice—or perhaps just milk—in the celluloid version.

"Grange is no fancy actor," his manager said today. "He wants to take things easy at the start of his screen work, and so his first picture is just going to be a simple story much like the story of his own life.

"And what could be better, more splendid?" challenged Mr. Pyle, as he looked toward Hollywood from the most expensive suite in Los Angeles' most expensive hotel. There was no one to contradict.

Charge Man Removed Bullet From Knee to Cheat Conviction

Government Claims Alleged Thief Practiced Emergency Surgery, Changing Calibre of Evidence.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15. — To cheat the government in its attempt to convict him of stealing from interstate shipments, Louis McCoy, 38, sat on his cot in county jail here and with contraband tools practised emergency surgery, removing a bullet from his knee which he knew would be used as evidence against him. This was the charge today that Assistant United States District Attorney Marie Nungesser offered the jury hearing McCoy's trial, before Federal Judge Paul Jones.

At the time of his arrest McCoy refused to undergo operation for removal of the bullet. J. W. Smalley, Baltimore & Ohio railroad detective, testified he shot an unidentified man in the knee with a .38 calibre revolver. In trial yesterday counsel for McCoy demanded then that the bullet be removed from McCoy's leg and presented as evidence that he was not the man who was shot by the detective. The operation last night uncovered a .25 calibre bullet.

Assistant District Attorney Van Buren, however, found a long knife, a small bottle of salve and a needle and thread in the man's cot. He said he had no doubt that McCoy had also taken about four crude stitches in his leg after presumably removing the .38 calibre bullet and replacing it with the smaller one.

Cabinet of Briand Opposed Capitulation To Finance Board

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The Briand cabinet today decided against complete capitulation to the finance commission of the chamber of deputies.

The cabinet met and discussed Finance Minister Loucheur's financial program. It was reported the resignation of M. Loucheur and that of the entire cabinet was under consideration. The cabinet decided, however, not to resign or to permit M. Loucheur to resign.

The finance minister was instructed to confer with President Malvy, of the finance commission, and M. Lamoureux, reporter of the commission, and seek a "formula of practical collaboration for balancing the budget and providing for a sinking fund.

Plan Congressional Quiz Into Federal Anti-trust Suits

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A congressional inquiry to determine whether there has been a complete collapse of the government's prosecutions under the anti-trust laws is being considered by senate progressives, it was learned today.

The department of justice, it was disclosed officially, has lost nearly every anti-trust action instituted in the federal courts since July 1, 1924, excepting those in which pleas of guilty or the so-called "consent decrees" have been entered. Most of them have been removed from court dockets since the advent of John G. Sargent as attorney general.

Young La Follette Given Republican Committee Places

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Young Bob La Follette, son of the late leader of Wisconsin insurgency, was formally assigned today to senatorial committees as a full-fledged Republican.

The youthful Wisconsinite was assigned to Republican membership on the manufactures, Indian affairs and mining committees by the Republican committee on committees and will be given a share of Republican patronage. His father served before him on the manufacturers and Indian affairs committee, being chairman of the former until ousted from the Republican party in the senate last March.

Although now aligned with the Republicans, young La Follette is not expected to become a regular by any means. His only comment on the Republican honors was "I have nothing to say."

HONOR MOTOR TAGS FOR 1926

Put New Licenses on Cars, Police Chief Suggests.

In an effort to speed up the distribution of the 1926 automobile license plates, Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, following the lead of other law enforcement officials throughout the state, today announced that next year's tags would be honored during December.

In making it possible for motorists to use their new plates during the remainder of this year, the police chief also declared that 1925 plates could not be used after December 31 and motorists who appear on the streets on January 1, displaying the old licenses will be subject to arrest.

Not more than 250 automobile owners have obtained the new plates, according to Deputy Automobile Commissioner J. S. Hilbert. Due to the complicated form of this year's license, distribution is slower than in previous years and motorists who wait until the last week to apply, in all probability, will be disappointed. Truck and pleasure car licenses are available now.

The local distributing office will be open from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight to distribute the new plates.

"Mr. Zero" Ordained "Bishop of Wall Street" by Friends

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Urbain Ladoux, better known as "Mr. Zero," was ordained today by his reorganized army of the hopeless as "Bishop of Wall Street," succeeding the late Rev. William Wilkinson.

Notwithstanding last winter's opposition to his humanitarian efforts by police, Wall Street and Trinity church, "Mr. Zero" announced today that he would shortly assume his ecclesiastical role and preach to the New York Stock Exchange and throughout the financial district.

"I am a minister of brotherly love," declared "Mr. Zero." "I have devoted my life to the loveless, wifeless, homeless, voteless and workless. I shall preach my ideals to Wall Street and I challange the Trinity church corporation to pit one of their ministers against me."

"Mr. Zero' is occupied at present in constructing his city of Comrades, a city within a city, on the Bowery. This new hobohemia includes nine buildings—the comrade apartments, comrade hotel, the bedsheet theatre, Zero's tub (all you can eat for five cents with free mirrors), the plebian senate and city hall, and employment agency.

Mrs. Ethel Roosevelt Derby, daughter of the late Theodore Roosevelt, is the only woman to be made a member of the National Crime commission of the United States.

Uruguay will have a large apartment and school combined.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Stocks of the railroad companies gave another demonstration of their strength and popularity in early trading today, continuing the moderate advance in Price which featured yesterday's session. Major interest was displayed in the "merger" stocks, though the eastern and northwestern dividend-payers were not lacking in attention. American Can's advance to a new record high price above 265 was the feature of the industrial list. Speculative "shifting" from the motors and oils resulted in an irregular tone in these sections of the market, the movement being punctured by a 10-point drop in Chrysler in the first half hour of trading.

Huge treasury and tax payment operations in the money market was held responsible for the temporary tightening of short term funds, and call money renewals were again posted at 5 per cent. The failure of opponents of the new tax bill to load it up with amendments and conditions, particularly in advancing the minimum surtax rate, was very gratifying to Wall street, indicating also the probable ability of the administration to put through its whole program of constructive business legislation.

Trading in railroad stocks broadened as the session advanced.

The man's identity is known to the fighter's widow, the police declare. It is thought that bootleggers, to whom Siki owed money, had a hand in the murder.

After receiving the threatening note Siki went about with a depressed air, and told many persons he had enemies who were out to "get him." He complained to the police, as he had often done before, but scorned to accept their advice that he carry a gun.

"If I can get an even break, I can take care of myself with my fists, or, if need be, anything handy I can pick up," he was wont to say.

The scene of the murder was within a stone's throw of Siki's home. Siki lived with his wife and pet monkey at 361 West Forty-first street, almost across the street where the body was found.

Police, summoned to the scene, immediately began a vigorous search for Siki's assailant or assailants. They began checking up Siki's movements just prior to the killing.

Has Colorful Career.

Siki has had probably the most colorful career of any man who adopted the ring as a profession. He was born in St. Louis, Sept. 16, 1897, and early in life deserted his drab job of bottle washer to do battle in the roped arena.

His exploits were incredibly amusing. He always entertained the crowd once he was in the ring. He seemed to take his fights as jokes, and often went into battle after having trained on the choicest wines and liquors.

He fought with great success and achieved his greatest fame when he won the light heavyweight championship of the world by knocking out Carpentier. He lost this title later on to Mike McTigue, of Ireland, in a seventeenth day of March battle in Dublin.

Had Happy-Go-Lucky Nature.

Outside the ring, he was constantly getting in trouble with individuals and with the police. He was of a happy-go-lucky nature and never avoided a battle, no matter how much the odds were against him.

In Paris, after his victory over Carpentier, he visited all the well-known American bars and attempted to pay for drinks all around to strangers, including Americans, many of whom refused. The French resented this action on Siki's part after he had toppled their idol.

On another occasion in Havana, he leaped out of a hotel window. When picked up by passerby, he smilingly remarked:

"I am Siki, the great battler."

Father of One Boy.

Siki was bitten by a lion cub in Marseilles, France, just before he was to have fought the British Middleweight, Moore. It was though that this would prevent Siki from entering the ring with Moore, but it didn't.

In the United States, the "singular Sengalese" frequently got into trouble with the police and was locked up on numerous occasions. He went "broke" a dozen times, only to recoup his fortunes by another fight or two. He was well liked by his friends but generally regarded as his own worst enemy.

Siki married Gertrude Amphier, a Holland girl, in 1921. He was the father of one child, a boy.

Married Second Time.

There was some question about Siki's marriage to the Holland girl. At any rate, Siki married again. In July 1924, he was married in the Municipal building, New York City, to Miss Lillian Werner, white woman. His son was by his first wife.

Last July, Siki was felled by a knife wound at the same spot where he was murdered today.

NAME "THAT'S THAT" BOARD

DeMolays Appoint Committee to Produce Play.

A general Production committee was named last evening for the home talent play, "That's That," which will be presented under auspices of Harding chapter, Order of DeMolay, in the High school auditorium Monday and Tuesday, December 28 and 29.

The committee is headed by Walter Niblock, assisted by William Kerr and other members. R. H. Perry, member of the Masonic lodge, which is sponsoring the DeMolay, is also assisting the committee.

Distribution and the advance sale of tickets for the show were discussed by the committee. Rehearsals are being conducted each evening in the grill room of the Masonic temple, Broadway.

"That's That,' is a John B. Rodgers production, being one of the 1926 plays. This will be the second time that the show has been presented, all scenery and costumes being new. The scenes are laid in a de luxe hotel at Palm Beach, Florida. The action deals with members of the elite social set, seeking diversion at the resort. There is a romance, involving a concealed identity, which keeps the story hot with interest. There are pretty girls in lively chorus numbers as an added feature.

The task of assembling the cast of 100 will be completed tonight.

Lead or Polonium May Replace Radium As Curative Medium

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Lead or polonium, surcharged with sun's rays, may soon replace radium as a curative medium. As the result of experiments made by Professor Deslandes and a young Rumanian woman student at the French Academy of Sciences, it was stated today.

Announcements have already been made by British scientists that lead has been found to have curative values affecting cancer, and the experiments in the French Academy of Science appear to not only confirm these experiments but also to indicate that lead and polonium may be used for other cures, in place of radium.

The young Romanian woman student, working in collaboration with Professor Deslandes, has found that certain cheaper substances, among them, urnaium and polonium, take on radio-active properties when exposed to intense sun radiations.

BROOKHART-STECK FIGHT NEAR END

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The contest between Senator Smith Brookhart, (R.) and Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, for the junior senatorial seat from Iowa, will be closed Saturday, it was announced today. Both sides will complete their cases before the senate elections committee with oral arguments Friday and Saturday.

The committee then will determine the legality of contested votes. If it decides that some 4,000 Brookhart votes, now contested by Steck, were legally cast, the present senator will be seated for a full six year term.

Defective Rail Blamed for Wreck; 11 Persons Injured

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Investigation on the derailment of the Clarksburg-Pittsburgh night passenger train on the Baltimore & Ohio lines shortly before midnight, near here, disclosed today that a defective rail was responsible. Eleven persons, mostly from the Pittsburgh district, were injured, one seriously.

The injured were taken to the Fairmont hospital, where it was stated that all will recover. Railroad officials considered it fortunate that the casualty list was not greater because one Pullman and a day coach rolled over an embankment into the West Fork river.

OHIO JUSTICE COURT PLEDGES JURY TRIALS

Zanesville Prohibition Officer Defines Stand in Signed Statement.

LAW, HE SAYS

Calls Upon Other Magistrates to Follow His Lead.

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 15.—Daniel H. Stires, justice of the peace of South Zanesville, and one of the prohibition enforcement officials in Ohio, issued a signed statement today, guaranteeing every offender in his court a jury trial. Justice Stiers' statement as follows:

"As a believer in constitutional law I shall hereafter grant the right of trial by jury to all persons brought before me. The supreme court has tried to indicate to all of us justices that this is what we should do. I think it has tried to tell us that we should be very particular to see that all persons get all their constitutional rights. I do not think the court could mean to give the people part of their rights and withhold the remainder.

"The court did not go as far as it might in its ruling, however, even judges of the supreme court are human and maybe they will do better next time if we justices back them up and give them encouragement.

"I call on all justices in Ohio to follow my lead in helping to restore the rights of the people. Let us be dominated by the spirit of July fourth 1776."

E. ROCHESTER SAFE CRACKED

Yeggs, However, Make Dry Haul in Warehouse.

Yeggs blew the safe in the Harsh and Elton warehouse at East Rochester some time between Saturday night and Monday morning, but found the safe empty, it developed today.

The attempted robbery was discovered when the warehouse was opened, and Sheriff Wright was notified. The owners say that the door on the safe was not locked but the culprits evidently made no attempt to turn the handle before lighting the fuse.

The Charles Swearingen general store at Hanoverton, five miles east of East Rochester, was also looted over the week-end. Women's wearing apparel, canned goods, etc., valued at between $150 and $175, and about $4 in change was taken. Entrance was made by forcing open the back door of the establishment.

The authorities believe both jobs to have been perpetrated by local talent.

200 Houses Razed, Two Persons Killed, 20 Hurt in Quake

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Two hundred houses were completely destroyed, two persons were killed and 20 injured in severe earthquakes that shook Khorrassam in northern Persia on Sunday, according to an Allahabad dispatch to the Central News today.

way executives in attempting to place the lines on a paying basis in the face of the competition offered by motor bus lines and automobiles. He said that street railway financiers must invest between $4 and $5 for each dollar of anticipated annual revenue, which means one turn-over every four or five years. Taxes also impose a heavy burden on the companies, seven cents out of each dollar going into government coffers.

TODAY

As to the pretty little poem, describing a charming lady resting in a big arm chair, with a cat for companion, all we can say is:

At 18, fair lady, try a handsome young man sitting close to your chair telling you how wonderful you are.

At 25, try a little baby standing beside the chair and learning to take its first few steps.

At 70, try a grandchild sitting on either side of you in the big chair while you read a fairy story.

You will find the young man, new baby, or grandchildren a considerable improvement on the fluffiest Persian cat that ever lapped up cream and never caught a mouse.

The scientific committee that allowed a body of students to go 60 hours without sleep—a crime against the students, but perhaps that doesn't matter—reports that sleep has both length and depth. One man in five hours of deep sleep may store up as much rest as another in 10 hours.

The learned committee also suggests, about 10,000 miles wide of the mark, that sleep may be only "a form of intoxication, due to storing of poison in the system."

If we could get rid of our poisons as fast as we develop them, say the wise men, we might get along without sleep.

That is scientific bosh. Sleep is to a human being what the time spent in recharging is to an electric battery. We use up our nervous and physical powers in walking hours, and make up the loss in sleep. The very young, in constant movement, need much sleep.

The adult in his prime, less active, needs less sleep, but plenty. The old man in good health needs little. The very old man leads a life that is between sleeping and waking.

"Snooze" Kinneard And Orange Blossoms Appear at Strand

Jack "Snooze" Kinneard, protege of "Red" Mack, assisted by his Orange Blossom company of musical comedy stars, opened a two-weeks' engagement at the Strand theatre, Monday.

This is Kinneard's third visit to East Liverpool, and, as was the case of his two previous visits, standing room was at a premium Monday evening.

The offering for the first half of the week is "My Panama Girl," one of the big shows which was presented during the company's first visit to East Liverpool last spring. "Snooze," a show in himself, keeps the audience in an uproar during the whole performance. The comedian is assisted by a half score of other principals and a real beauty chorus, who entertain with catchy song hits and clever dance steps.

Attractive stage settings are used by the company. The costumes are pretty.

The photoplay offering for the first half of the week is "A White Sin."

The bill to be presented during the last three days of this week is "Pretty Papa." This is one of Kinneard's newest shows.

F. C. Hicks Dies

His wife and daughter were prostrated at the news of his death.

Hicks was 53 years old, and a native of Westbury, L. I. He served four successive terms in congress from his home district, resigning at the close of the 67th congress to practice law. He was appointed alien property custodian by President Coolidge last April, succeeding Thomas W. Miller.

During the last campaign he was in charge of Republican Eastern headquarters in New York.

Mrs. Hicks and a daughter, Georgiana, survive. Funeral services, not yet completed, probably will be held at Westbury.

'Red' Grange Will Make His Movie Debut In California

Phantom of Gridiron Will Act Story of His Own Life — From Iceman to Millionaire.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15. — "Red" Grange, phantom of the gridiron, will make his motion picture debut in California.

C. C. Pyle, manager of the famous football player, announced here today the former Illinois star will come to Hollywood March 1 to don grease paint and cavort before the clicking cameras.

"The Arrow Pictures Corporation, which has deposited a check for $300,000 in a Champaign, Ills., bank as the minimum guarantee for Grange's first picture, plans to film it in New York, but as work must be started March 1, Grange will come to Hollywood where the weather is pleasant and outdoor scenes may be taken at any time," Pyle said.

Grange's initial screen appearance will find him playing a role he knows better than any.

He will merely act the story of his own life—from iceman to millionaire.

The scenario which is being written for Grange, according to Pyle, will picture the redhead as a struggling youth in college. He will be the football star, campus hero.

But after all just the average college boy.

Then presto. The big climax. A modern Aladdin in the form of professional football contracts or something almost as golden will flash across the screen. And in the end, of course, "Red" will marry the daughter of the banker in the quaint, old college town where he once had to get up so early in the morning to peddle ice—or perhaps just milk—in the celluloid version.

"Grange is no fancy actor," his manager said today. "He wants to take things easy at the start of his screen work, and so his first picture is just going to be a simple story much like the story of his own life.

"And what could be better, more splendid?" challenged Mr. Pyle, as he looked toward Hollywood from the most expensive suite in Los Angeles' most expensive hotel. There was no one to contradict.

Charge Man Removed Bullet From Knee to Cheat Conviction

Government Claims Alleged Thief Practiced Emergency Surgery, Changing Calibre of Evidence.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15. — To cheat the government in its attempt to convict him of stealing from interstate shipments, Louis McCoy, 38, sat on his cot in county jail here and with contraband tools practised emergency surgery, removing a bullet from his knee which he knew would be used as evidence against him. This was the charge today that Assistant United States District Attorney Marie Nungesser offered the jury hearing McCoy's trial, before Federal Judge Paul Jones.

At the time of his arrest McCoy refused to undergo operation for removal of the bullet. J. W. Smalley, Baltimore & Ohio railroad detective, testified he shot an unidentified man in the knee with a .38 calibre revolver. In trial yesterday counsel for McCoy demanded then that the bullet be removed from McCoy's leg and presented as evidence that he was not the man who was shot by the detective. The operation last night uncovered a .25 calibre bullet.

Assistant District Attorney Van Buren, however, found a long knife, a small bottle of salve and a needle and thread in the man's cot. He said he had no doubt that McCoy had also taken about four crude stitches in his leg after presumably removing the .38 calibre bullet and replacing it with the smaller one.

Cabinet of Briand Opposed Capitulation To Finance Board

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The Briand cabinet today decided against complete capitulation to the finance commission of the chamber of deputies.

The cabinet met and discussed Finance Minister Loucheur's financial program. It was reported the resignation of M. Loucheur and that of the entire cabinet was under consideration. The cabinet decided, however, not to resign or to permit M. Loucheur to resign.

The finance minister was instructed to confer with President Malvy, of the finance commission, and M. Lamoureux, reporter of the commission, and seek a "formula of practical collaboration for balancing the budget and providing for a sinking fund.

Plan Congressional Quiz Into Federal Anti-trust Suits

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A congressional inquiry to determine whether there has been a complete collapse of the government's prosecutions under the anti-trust laws is being considered by senate progressives, it was learned today.

The department of justice, it was disclosed officially, has lost nearly every anti-trust action instituted in the federal courts since July 1, 1924, excepting those in which pleas of guilty or the so-called "consent decrees" have been entered. Most of them have been removed from court dockets since the advent of John G. Sargent as attorney general.

Young La Follette Given Republican Committee Places

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Young Bob La Follette, son of the late leader of Wisconsin insurgency, was formally assigned today to senatorial committees as a full-fledged Republican.

The youthful Wisconsinite was assigned to Republican membership on the manufactures, Indian affairs and mining committees by the Republican committee on committees and will be given a share of Republican patronage. His father served before him on the manufacturers and Indian affairs committee, being chairman of the former until ousted from the Republican party in the senate last March.

Although now aligned with the Republicans, young La Follette is not expected to become a regular by any means. His only comment on the Republican honors was "I have nothing to say."

HONOR MOTOR TAGS FOR 1926

Put New Licenses on Cars, Police Chief Suggests.

In an effort to speed up the distribution of the 1926 automobile license plates, Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, following the lead of other law enforcement officials throughout the state, today announced that next year's tags would be honored during December.

In making it possible for motorists to use their new plates during the remainder of this year, the police chief also declared that 1925 plates could not be used after December 31 and motorists who appear on the streets on January 1, displaying the old licenses will be subject to arrest.

Not more than 250 automobile owners have obtained the new plates, according to Deputy Automobile Commissioner J. S. Hilbert. Due to the complicated form of this year's license, distribution is slower than in previous years and motorists who wait until the last week to apply, in all probability, will be disappointed. Truck and pleasure car licenses are available now.

The local distributing office will be open from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight to distribute the new plates.

"Mr. Zero" Ordained "Bishop of Wall Street" by Friends

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Urbain Ledoux, better known as "Mr. Zero," was ordained today by his reorganized army of the hopeless as "Bishop of Wall Street," succeeding the late Rev. William Wilkinson.

Notwithstanding last winter's opposition to his humanitarian efforts by police, Wall Street and Trinity church, "Mr. Zero" announced today that he would shortly assume his ecclesiastical role and preach to the New York Stock Exchange and throughout the financial district.

"I am a minister of brotherly love," declared "Mr. Zero." "I have devoted my life to the loveless, wifeless, homeless, voteless and workless. I shall preach my ideals to Wall Street and I challange the Trinity church corporation to pit one of their ministers against me."

"Mr. Zero' is occupied at present in constructing his city of Comrades, a city within a city, on the Bowery. This new hobohemia includes nine buildings—the comrade apartments, comrade hotel, the bedsheet theatre, Zero's tub (all you can eat for five cents with free mirrors), the plebian senate and city hall, and employment agency.

Mrs. Ethel Roosevelt Derby, daughter of the late Theodore Roosevelt, is the only woman to be made a member of the National Crime commission of the United States.

Uruguay will have a large apartment and school combined.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Stocks of the railroad companies gave another demonstration of their strength and popularity in early trading today, continuing the moderate advance in Price which featured yesterday's session. Major interest was displayed in the "merger" stocks, though the eastern and northwestern dividend-payers were not lacking in attention. American Can's advance to a new record high price above 265 was the feature of the industrial list. Speculative "shifting" from the motors and oils resulted in an irregular tone in these sections of the market, the movement being punctured by a 10-point drop in Chrysler in the first half hour of trading.

Huge treasury and tax payment operations in the money market was held responsible for the temporary tightening of short term funds, and call money renewals were again posted at 5 per cent. The failure of opponents of the new tax bill to load it up with amendments and conditions, particularly in advancing the minimum surtax rate, was very gratifying to Wall street, indicating also the probable ability of the administration to put through its whole program of constructive business legislation.

Trading in railroad stocks broadened as the session advanced.

The man's identity is known to the fighter's widow, the police declare. It is thought that bootleggers, to whom Siki owed money, had a hand in the murder.

After receiving the threatening note Siki went about with a depressed air, and told many persons he had enemies who were out to "get him." He complained to the police, as he had often done before, but scorned to accept their advice that he carry a gun.

"If I can get an even break, I can take care of myself with my fists, or, if need be, anything handy I can pick up," he was wont to say.

The scene of the murder was within a stone's throw of Siki's home. Siki lived with his wife and pet monkey at 361 West Forty-first street, almost across the street where the body was found.

Police, summoned to the scene, immediately began a vigorous search for Siki's assailant or assailants. They began checking up Siki's movements just prior to the killing.

Has Colorful Career.

Siki has had probably the most colorful career of any man who adopted the ring as a profession. He was born in St. Louis, Sept. 16, 1897, and early in life deserted his drab job of bottle washer to do battle in the roped arena.

His exploits were incredibly amusing. He always entertained the crowd once he was in the ring. He seemed to take his fights as jokes, and often went into battle after having trained on the choicest wines and liquors.

He fought with great success and achieved his greatest fame when he won the light heavyweight championship of the world by knocking out Carpentier. He lost this title later on to Mike McTigue, of Ireland, in a seventeenth day of March battle in Dublin.

Had Happy-Go-Lucky Nature.

Outside the ring, he was constantly getting in trouble with individuals and with the police. He was of a happy-go-lucky nature and never avoided a battle, no matter how much the odds were against him.

In Paris, after his victory over Carpentier, he visited all the well-known American bars and attempted to pay for drinks all around to strangers, including Americans, many of whom refused. The French resented this action on Siki's part after he had toppled their idol.

On another occasion in Havana, he leaped out of a hotel window. When picked up by passerby, he smilingly remarked:

"I am Siki, the great battler."

Father of One Boy.

Siki was bitten by a lion cub in Marseilles, France, just before he was to have fought the British Middleweight, Moore. It was though that this would prevent Siki from entering the ring with Moore, but it didn't.

In the United States, the "singular Sengalese" frequently got into trouble with the police and was locked up on numerous occasions. He went "broke" a dozen times, only to recoup his fortunes by another fight or two. He was well liked by his friends but generally regarded as his own worst enemy.

Siki married Gertrude Amphier, a Holland girl, in 1921. He was the father of one child, a boy.

Married Second Time.

There was some question about Siki's marriage to the Holland girl. At any rate, Siki married again. In July 1924, he was married in the Municipal building, New York City, to Miss Lillian Werner, white woman. His son was by his first wife.

Last July, Siki was felled by a knife wound at the same spot where he was murdered today.

NAME "THAT'S THAT" BOARD

DeMolays Appoint Committee to Produce Play.

A general Production committee was named last evening for the home talent play, "That's That," which will be presented under auspices of Harding chapter, Order of DeMolay, in the High school auditorium Monday and Tuesday, December 28 and 29.

The committee is headed by Walter Niblock, assisted by William Kerr and other members. R. H. Perry, member of the Masonic lodge, which is sponsoring the DeMolay, is also assisting the committee.

Distribution and the advance sale of tickets for the show were discussed by the committee. Rehearsals are being conducted each evening in the grill room of the Masonic temple, Broadway.

"That's That,' is a John B. Rodgers production, being one of the 1926 plays. This will be the second time that the show has been presented, all scenery and costumes being new. The scenes are laid in a de luxe hotel at Palm Beach, Florida. The action deals with members of the elite social set, seeking diversion at the resort. There is a romance, involving a concealed identity, which keeps the story hot with interest. There are pretty girls in lively chorus numbers as an added feature.

The task of assembling the cast of 100 will be completed tonight.

Lead or Polonium May Replace Radium As Curative Medium

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Lead or polonium, surcharged with sun's rays, may soon replace radium as a curative medium. As the result of experiments made by Professor Deslandes and a young Rumanian woman student at the French Academy of Sciences, it was stated today.

Announcements have already been made by British scientists that lead has been found to have curative values affecting cancer, and the experiments in the French Academy of Science appear to not only confirm these experiments but also to indicate that lead and polonium may be used for other cures, in place of radium.

The young Romanian woman student, working in collaboration with Professor Deslandes, has found that certain cheaper substances, among them, urnaium and polonium, take on radio-active properties when exposed to intense sun radiations.

BROOKHART-STECK FIGHT NEAR END

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The contest between Senator Smith Brookhart, (R.) and Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, for the junior senatorial seat from Iowa, will be closed Saturday, it was announced today. Both sides will complete their cases before the senate elections committee with oral arguments Friday and Saturday.

The committee then will determine the legality of contested votes. If it decides that some 4,000 Brookhart votes, now contested by Steck, were legally cast, the present senator will be seated for a full six year term.

Defective Rail Blamed for Wreck; 11 Persons Injured

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Investigation on the derailment of the Clarksburg-Pittsburgh night passenger train on the Baltimore & Ohio lines shortly before midnight, near here, disclosed today that a defective rail was responsible. Eleven persons, mostly from the Pittsburgh district, were injured, one seriously.

The injured were taken to the Fairmont hospital, where it was stated that all will recover. Railroad officials considered it fortunate that the casualty list was not greater because one Pullman and a day coach rolled over an embankment into the West Fork river.

RAILWAYS SAFER THAN EVER BEFORE

The work of railway employees has been safer this year than ever before and the record for safe handling of passengers has been better within the last three years than ever before although not quite so good this year as last year. The Railway Age, which publishes statistics showing the increase in the safety of railway operation, says that it is now only one-third as dangerous to work for the railways and only one-fifth as dangerous to ride on their passenger trains as it was twenty years ago.

"The progress that has been made in increasing the safety of operation," the Railway Age says, "is strikingly illustrated by statistics of the last two decades. In 1904 one man out of each 357 employed by the railways was killed. In 1914 this had been reduced to one employee in 538, and in 1924 to one in 1,164. The record of 1924 as regards safety of employees is the best ever made in any entire year. In the first eight months of 1924, however, one employee in each 1,784 was killed while in the first eight months of 1925 only one in each 1,824 was killed, which indicates that the record of 1925 will show further improvement. The annual accident figures show that railway employment is less than one-third as hazardous as it was twenty years ago, and less than one-half as hazardous as a decade ago.

MRS. GRIFFITH'S LETTER IS REVEALED TO THE PUBLIC

Alabama Woman Has Used Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup Thirteen Years and Is Still Enthusiastic About It.

Dr. Thatcher's celebrated Liver and Blood Syrup has always met with general favor among all classes and for more than half a century has been recognized as a tried and true remedy Some remarkable evidence of the widespread popularity of this preparation has come to light in the form of letters received by the manufacturers. Among the most interesting shown is one from Mrs. Lydia Griffith, R. F. D. No. 1, Tallahassee, Ala., who writes:

"I consider Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup an old friend of mine, as I have used it in my family for thirteen years and in all that time it has never failed in a single instance of giving the desired relief. I gladly recommend it to al who suffer from indigestion, stomach troubles and impure blood."

If one may judge from present indications as shown by the large number of people who are calling for it, Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup bids fair to break all records in the near future for number of bottles passed over the counter, which alone is one of the strongest recommendations that can be made in its favor, for people would not buy it so continuously and advise their friends to take it if they were not perfectly satisfied that it was doing them good.

The public is reminded that Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold in East Liverpool by Carnahan Drug Co., with the positive guarantee that your money will be returned if it does not benefit you.

Unmuzzled Senator Held for Biting Man Sentenced in Manila

MANILA, Dec. 15.—Senator Jose Veloso of the Philippine senate has been sentenced to two months and one day in Bilibid for biting the policeman who tried to arrest him when his gambling den was raided two years ago.

Veloso won his senatorship in the last election—he was only a representative at the time of the biting episode—by making his campaign in an airplane, a unique method in Philippine politics. Troubles are coming thick and fast for the senator, for the aviator who flew the campaigning airplane is now suing for the salary promised him and never paid.

The local papers have been waxing quite witty at the expense of the biting senator. The Manila Times in an editorial said: "We have heard of legislators being muzzled, but we never knew exactly what it meant until now. The senator evidently had left his in Ayuntaminento (Philippine legislative hall) when he was guilty of this indiscretion."

Spain expects a bumper crop of Valencia oranges this season.

THE PROOF OF THE FEEDING IS IN THE MILK

No matter how carefully your cows have been bred, or how carefully you are caring for them, they produce milk only in proportion to the milk-producing qualities of the feed you are giving them.

From this point of view, that of dairymen the country over, the best ration for your cows is the one that will produce the most milk. Stevens Dairy Ration is this kind of a dairy feed.

WHY NOT PUT IT UP TO THE COW?

We Want You to Find Out For Yourself What Stevens Dairy Ration Will Do.

Weigh the milk and butter and after using, convince yourself of the feeding value and the results to be obtained from Stevens.

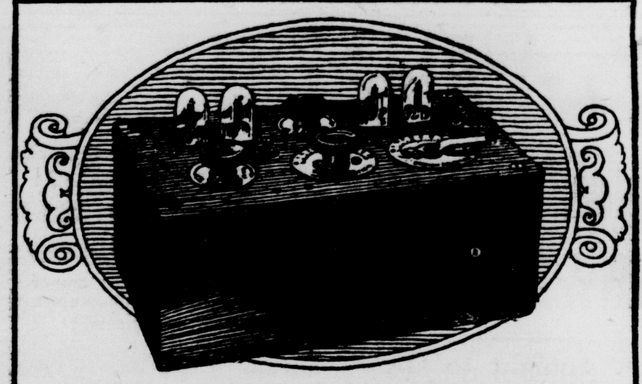

Stevens Dairy Ration will soon prove that you cannot afford to mix your own feed.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

TOWNSHIPS TO BUILD ROADS

Work in Many Sections Scheduled to Begin in January.

Although $18,000 has been received by County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton from the state treasurer to be credited to the county road fund, under the provisions of the Green law, $1,000 is to be paid out to each township on order. No money will be checked out until January.

This was made known at a meeting of the county commissioners with trustees of all township Monday.

Township maps, showing preferential roads to be improved in one, two-three order as designated by the trustees of the different townships several months ago, were given the boards of trustees. So interested are the trustees in going ahead with this particular road program, that work in many township will begin immediately after January.

Middleton township will be the first to become active, and will build a road that will connect intercounty highway No. 502 with the East Carmel cemetery. This township will also go ahead with the improvement of the Clarkson-Rogers road to the St. Clair township line.

Some townships will build nine-foot concrete roads with the fund now made available, while other townships will build gravel, slag and cinder roads.

An additional $1,000 will be due these same townships next year from the fund that was created by the last legislature.

St. Clair township proposes to make some improvement on the Sprucevale road from the end of the concrete road north of Calcutta to the St. Clair-Middleton township line, and this work is expected to begin early in the new year.

Center township proposed to improve the Lisbon-Teegarden road which will tap the Lisbon-Salem road, the road extending from the west end of the Canton bridge in Lisbon north through Logtown, thence east to the Salem-Lisbon road.

In Salem township, the road extending from Franklin Square to the Salem-Lisbon road is to be improved, and the county commissioners have ordered County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk to run a line for this purpose, and as early as possible. Taking this road out of the mud will give another hard surfaced road out of Leetonia.

So interested are the various boards of township trustees in constructing a secondary road system, it is declared that more mileage will be improved in this county next year than in any single year since the construction of improved roads was inaugurated.

SCHEDULE GIVEN FLEET OF TRUCKS

Township trustees who were in conference with the county commissioners Monday were anxious to obtain the service of the county fleet of trucks, that a schedule has been assigned that will keep the fleet active until next April.

The fleet is now working in Perry township, and will remain there until Dec. 21, when the trucks will be placed in Salem township and remain there until Jan. 4.

Fairfield township has been granted the fleet from Jan. 5 to Jan. 18 and United township from Jan. 19 to Feb. 2.

Yellow Creek township will have the use of these trucks from Feb. 3 until Feb. 16 when they will be sent to Middleton township and remain there until March 2, after which they will travel back to Madison township, remaining there on road work until March 17. Liverpool township has been assigned the term of March 18 until April 1.

The county steam shovel will go into Middleton township within a few weeks to begin grading, and as this township has over $5 000 in its road fund now, it is proposed to do as much work as possible during the early part of the year.

By making this assignment of the county fleet of trucks, it is the idea of the commissioners to apportion the time of service in each township as evenly as possible, so that all townships in the county can be served.

BRICK PLANT TO RESUME SHORTLY

The plant of the Summitville Brick company at Summitville will be placed in operation within a month, it has been announced by General Manager I. M. Johnson. This plant was recently destroyed by fire, and although insurance loss has been adjusted, the work of rebuilding has of necessity been slow, due to the inability of the company to obtain prompt delivery of equipment.

Steady operation of this plant is assured, it is said by Mr. Johnson as orders for future delivery for its texture building brick are heavy, especially in the Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit district.

Agreement Filed.

For failure to abide by the terms of an agreement to purchase one acre of real estate, an action has been filed in common pleas court by the Columbiana Tire and Rubber company against Ella Elsholtz, who first purchased the property from the plaintiff and who later sold her interest to Michael Fialla. The petition relates there is now $1,383.25 due on the property and Fialla has been made a party defendant to the action.

COURT GRANTS LEAVE TO FILE

In the case of Dink Bowling against the Pennsylvania Railroad company, where $1,000 is sought as a result of an accident, the court has granted the defendant leave to file its answer to the petition of the plaintiff by January 2.

A motion to the petition has been sustained in the case of Arthur H. Cameron against A. H. Reber and others, and the plaintiff has been granted leave by the court to file his amended petition by January 9. In this case, which was filed September 9, last, the plaintiff seeks the recovery of $642.40 from the defendants for services rendered in the drilling of an oil well.

Leave to file an answer and cross petition has been granted the defendant in the partition action filed by Frank Behner against Ella M. Mangus. This case was filed on December 4, 1924.

An amnded petition is to be filed in the case of H. Mitchell Gunder against Francis Ziegler, leave of court having been granted the plaintiff on his own motion. In this case the plaintiff claims there is due him from the defendant $840 for room and board.

COMFORT STATION CONTRACT IS LET

John A. Morrow of Lisbon has been awarded the contract by the county commissioners for the construction of a men's comfort station in the basement of the court house, his bid of $6,757.84 being the lowest of three submitted for this work.

Other bids were Campbell & Redland, $7,569.44 and J. C. Gamble & Co., of East Liverpool, $7,700.

This is the second time bids for this improvement were opened by the commissioners, all formers bids having been rejected on account of being above the estimate.

Federal Aid Sought.

Federal aid is to be sought for the improvement of the Benton road extending north out of Perry township into Mahoning county. This was announced by the county commissioners today. Mahoning county commissioners have been informed of the action of the Columbiana board, and the Mahoning commissioners are to make a similar request.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Ernest Marshall, a mill worker residing at East Liverpool nad Goldie W. Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. J. M. Cochran.

G. W. Robinson, a machinist residing at Cleveland and Miss Margaret Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connor of Wellsville have been granted a marriage license. They will be married by the Rev. Ruffing of Wellsville.

Farm Land Leased.

The Rajah Oil company of Youngstown has taken a lease on the 120-acre Hickman and 170-acre George farms in Madison townships, and drilling operations will begin immediately under the direction of Roy Miller of Columbiana. The Youngstown interest has also taken over the four oil wells on the Hickman farm that have been producing during the last 10 years.

Sentence Suspended.

A suspended sentence of six months in the Canton workhouse was pronounced by Judge Lodge Riddle in the case of John Lutch of Salem, who was charged with failing to contribute to the support of a child. K. L. Cohourn, of Salem, counsel for Lutch, filed a motion for a stay of execution of sentence, pending an appeal to common pleas on error.

Cited to Appear.

Harold E. Pugh, against whom an alimony action was filed by Myrtle E. Pugh July 6, last, has been cited to appear before Judge James G. Moore next Monday. On July 15, last, Pugh was ordered to pay his wife $35 temporary alimony and within 10 days, and then $10 per week until further order of court.

Investigating Cases.

Instead of the county commissioners demanding all who receive a blind pension under the law report before the board for examination, a personal investigator has been placed in the field, and upon his report will future allowances be approved.

Seek to Transfer Money.

Declaring the road fund will not be reimbursed until after the January tax settlement, the trustees of Liverpool township, through counsel, Prescuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes, hae filed an application in common pleas court seeking the permission of the court to transfer $1,000 from the general township fund to the township road fund.

Women of Plymouth Want Women Police In Crime Wave War

PLYMOUTH, Eng.—Indignant at recent comments on excessive immorality in Plymouth and at the fact that the authorities have refused to appoint women police to patrol the town, 2,000 women inhabitants propose to organize a march to deliver an ultimatum to the municipal authorities.

Recently Plymouth has been the scene of many assaults upon women and young children ,and the demand for greater police protection is being supported by religious bodies and social organizations.

The increase in immortality is attributed to the serious overcrowding in the local tenements—which are a blot on the town—and the lax control by parents.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

TOWNSHIPS TO BUILD ROADS

Work in Many Sections Scheduled to Begin in January.

Although $18,000 has been received by County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton from the state treasurer to be credited to the county road fund, under the provisions of the Green law, $1,000 is to be paid out to each township on order. No money will be checked out until January.

This was made known at a meeting of the county commissioners with trustees of all township Monday.

Township maps, showing preferential roads to be improved in one, two-three order as designated by the trustees of the different townships several months ago, were given the boards of trustees. So interested are the trustees in going ahead with this particular road program, that work in many township will begin immediately after January.

Middleton township will be the first to become active, and will build a road that will connect intercounty highway No. 502 with the East Carmel cemetery. This township will also go ahead with the improvement of the Clarkson-Rogers road to the St. Clair township line.

Some townships will build nine-foot concrete roads with the fund now made available, while other townships will build gravel, slag and cinder roads.

An additional $1,000 will be due these same townships next year from the fund that was created by the last legislature.

St. Clair township proposes to make some improvement on the Sprucevale road from the end of the concrete road north of Calcutta to the St. Clair-Middleton township line, and this work is expected to begin early in the new year.

Center township proposed to improve the Lisbon-Teegarden road which will tap the Lisbon-Salem road, the road extending from the west end of the Canton bridge in Lisbon north through Logtown, thence east to the Salem-Lisbon road.

In Salem township, the road extending from Franklin Square to the Salem-Lisbon road is to be improved, and the county commissioners have ordered County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk to run a line for this purpose, and as early as possible. Taking this road out of the mud will give another hard surfaced road out of Leetonia.

So interested are the various boards of township trustees in constructing a secondary road system, it is declared that more mileage will be improved in this county next year than in any single year since the construction of improved roads was inaugurated.

SCHEDULE GIVEN FLEET OF TRUCKS

Township trustees who were in conference with the county commissioners Monday were anxious to obtain the service of the county fleet of trucks, that a schedule has been assigned that will keep the fleet active until next April.

The fleet is now working in Perry township, and will remain there until Dec. 21, when the trucks will be placed in Salem township and remain there until Jan. 4.

Fairfield township has been granted the fleet from Jan. 5 to Jan. 18 and United township from Jan. 19 to Feb. 2.

Yellow Creek township will have the use of these trucks from Feb. 3 until Feb. 16 when they will be sent to Middleton township and remain there until March 2, after which they will travel back to Madison township, remaining there on road work until March 17. Liverpool township has been assigned the term of March 18 until April 1.

The county steam shovel will go into Middleton township within a few weeks to begin grading, and as this township has over $5 000 in its road fund now, it is proposed to do as much work as possible during the early part of the year.

By making this assignment of the county fleet of trucks, it is the idea of the commissioners to apportion the time of service in each township as evenly as possible, so that all townships in the county can be served.

BRICK PLANT TO RESUME SHORTLY

The plant of the Summitville Brick company at Summitville will be placed in operation within a month, it has been announced by General Manager J. M. Johnson. This plant was recently destroyed by fire, and although insurance loss has been adjusted, the work of rebuilding has of necessity been slow, due to the inability of the company to obtain prompt delivery of equipment.

Steady operation of this plant is assured, it is said by Mr. Johnson as orders for future delivery for its texture building brick are heavy, especially in the Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit district.

Agreement Filed.

For failure to abide by the terms of an agreement to purchase one acre of real estate, an action has been filed in common pleas court by the Columbiana Tire and Rubber company against Ella Elsholtz, who first purchased the property from the plaintiff and who later sold her interest to Michael Fialla. The petition relates there is now $1,383.25 due on the property and Fialla has been made a party defendant to the action.

COURT GRANTS LEAVE TO FILE

In the case of Dink Bowling against the Pennsylvania Railroad company, where $1,000 is sought as a result of an accident, the court has granted the defendant leave to file its answer to the petition of the plaintiff by January 2.

A motion to the petition has been sustained in the case of Arthur H. Cameron against A. H. Reber and others, and the plaintiff has been granted leave by the court to file his amended petition by January 9. In this case, which was filed September 9, last, the plaintiff seeks the recovery of $642.40 from the defendants for services rendered in the drilling of an oil well.

Leave to file an answer and cross petition has been granted the defendant in the partition action filed by Frank Behner against Ella M. Mangus. This case was filed on December 4, 1924.

An amnded petition is to be filed in the case of H. Mitchell Gunder against Francis Ziegler, leave of court having been granted the plaintiff on his own motion. In this case the plaintiff claims there is due him from the defendant $840 for room and board.

COMFORT STATION CONTRACT IS LET

John A. Morrow of Lisbon has been awarded the contract by the county commissioners for the construction of a men's comfort station in the basement of the court house, his bid of $6,757.84 being the lowest of three submitted for this work.

Other bids were Campbell & Redland, $7,569.44 and J. C. Gamble & Co., of East Liverpool, $7,700.

This is the second time bids for this improvement were opened by the commissioners, all formers bids having been rejected on account of being above the estimate.

Federal Aid Sought.

Federal aid is to be sought for the improvement of the Benton road extending north out of Perry township into Mahoning county. This was announced by the county commissioners today. Mahoning county commissioners have been informed of the action of the Columbiana board, and the Mahoning commissioners are to make a similar request.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Ernest Marshall, a mill worker residing at East Liverpool nad Goldie W. Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. J. M. Cochran.

G. W. Robinson, a machinist residing at Cleveland and Miss Margarct Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connor of Wellsville have been granted a marriage license. They will be married by the Rev. Ruffing of Wellsville.

Farm Land Leased.

The Rajah Oil company of Youngstown has taken a lease on the 120-acre Hickman and 170-acre George farms in Madison townships, and drilling operations will begin immediately under the direction of Roy Miller of Columbiana. The Youngstown interest has also taken over the four oil wells on the Hickman farm that have been producing during the last 10 years.

Sentence Suspended.

A suspended sentence of six months in the Canton workhouse was pronounced by Judge Lodge Riddle in the case of John Lutch of Salem, who was charged with failing to contribute to the support of a child. K. L. Cobourn, of Salem, counsel for Lutch, filed a motion for a stay of execution of sentence, pending an appeal to common pleas on error.

Cited to Appear.

Harold E. Pugh, against whom an alimony action was filed by Myrtle E. Pugh July 6, last, has been cited to appear before Judge James G. Moore next Monday. On July 15, last, Pugh was ordered to pay his wife $35 temporary alimony and within 10 days, and then $10 per week until further order of court.

Investigating Cases.

Instead of the county commissioners demanding all who receive a blind pension under the law report before the board for examination, a personal investigator has been placed in the field, and upon his report will future allowances be approved.

Seek to Transfer Money.

Declaring the road fund will not be reimbursed until after the January tax settlement, the trustees of Liverpool township, through counsel, Prescuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes, hae filed an application in common pleas court seeking the permission of the court to transfer $1,000 from the general township fund to the township road fund.

Lorah Lines Up Strong Squad For Opener With F. & M.

Local Passers Will Meet Old Team-Mates In Thursday Battle

Brother vs. Brother Scoring Duel Anticipated With Bob and Tom Pusey on Opposing Sides; Percy Wyant and "Chuck" McConville Also Prove Valuable Cogs in Taylor Machine.

FORMER team mates of the caged court who battled shoulder to shoulder through a difficulst last season's schedule will become bitter basketball enemies when Coach Lorah sends his Blue and White quint into action on Thursday night at the high school gymnasium against Sam Taylor's Franklin & Marshill academy outfit, of Lancaster, Pa., in the opening scrap of the card here.

Team against team, brother against brother and, unless anticipations fail of relization, a red-hot scrap to open appropriately what appears now to be one of the most brilliant seasons in years—all will combine to make Thursday's lid-lifter a sure fire attraction that is calculated to sell tickets faster than the proverbial hot cakes.

Sam Taylor is bringing to East Liverpool a team that he confidently expects to be the best F. & M. floor product in recent years, and the fact that three of the regulars are East Liverpool boys is no small tribute to the brand of basketball developed in the Ceramic City.

And for every point that Bob drops in, fans will count on an equalizing figure from his brother, Tom, who'll likely be filling one of the point making roles for the Lorah combine from Thursday on. This duel is certain to provide a few high test sparks.

Paul English, best scholastic fullback in the county for the season recently closed, critics from all points north agreeing also, will draw one of the guard jobs.

Elmer English at center, Carl Wilson at forward and probably Bough at the other guard will constitute the lineup unless Coach Lorah decides to change it around a bit before game time.

Franklin & Marshall will have the experience of at least two games before they arrive in East Liverpool. In both of the engagements in which the Taylor outfit has figured thus far, the Pennsylvanians have run up lopsided scores, swamping Harrisburg academy by the count of 58 to 14 in the opener.

In addition to the five named above, Lorah will also have the services of Banks, who has been working out with the first string outfit, and can pick from J. Hamilton and H. Deidrick, forwards; Brozka, center; and Hanes and Jack Bromby, guards.

POWER QUINTET DOWNS LISBON

Dodge Motors Lose on I. O. O. F. Floor; Score, 30 to 13.

Lisbon Dodge Motors' basketball passers proved easy pickings for the Power Five last night on the Odd Fellows' floor, where they went down to a 30 to 13 defeat.

The Power five outclassed the visitors. The locals used their reserves in the second half.

The Power five set the pace, leading by the score of 10 to 6 at the end of the first period. At the end of the half the score was 22 to 6.

With the Power five substitutes in the lineup the game became more even, only outscoring the Lisbon lads by a point.

Todd, former Wellsville high school and Franklin and Marshall academy star, was the stellar performer, caging seven baskets from the field, besides playing well in other departments of the game. Jester followed Todd in scoring, finding the baskets for five field goals, while Bucher put up a strong defensive game at guard.

Sullivan, Johnson and Henderson were the best performers for the Lisbon five.

Pitt to Play at Home

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 15.—Pittsburgh University will play all its 1926 grid games at home. The schedule is: Sept. 26, Georgetown; Oct. 9, Lafayette; Oct. 16, Colgate; Oct. 23, Carnegie Tech; Oct. 30, Westminster; Nov. 6, W. V. U.; Nov. 13, W. & J.; Nov. 25 (Thanksgiving), Penn State.

By Norman E. Brown.

As the leading brothers of the professional golfing fraternity hie around the links of the south and tropical west there is a feeling among close followers of the game that the 1926 season will see some of the well known stars of the game fighting to keep from being pushed entirely off the tee of public interest by the younger clement.

A few years bask, for instance, Walter Hagen, Long Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchinson ruled the roost. The others were just background for them in the big tourneys.

Hutchinson was the first one of the trio to slip. He has tried in vain the last four years to draw the limelight by a victory in one of the major tourneys and has failed.

Long Jim Barnes seemed about destined to step out of the limelight when he did a comeback by winning the British open title last summer. Just how long Barnes can hold the pace he set that day and in tourneys later remains to be seen. He is 38 and has had a long life in tournament play.

Walter Hagen boasts of but one major title now—the national professional championship. He is still the greatest of all tournament players, due to his sangfroid, his coolness under strees, and his usually absolute control over his shots. But his work last season was anything but typical of his game.

And when Leo Diegel, pride of Canada, turned Hagen back in the Canadian open, the former again indicated quite clearly that he is ready to demand a place in the sun. Hagen and Diegel were paired together in the last round. Hagen was two strokes behind the Canadian, but that ordinarily would have made the battle more interesting, with Hagen in his usual form. Hagen's tournament play has been a repetition of coming from behind—outplaying the leader.

But Diegel matched Hagen hole for hole. The man who once won the British open title two out of three years took an eight on the first hole, a par four. From that point on his game was off form. Diegel played brilliant golf through the entire day.

Diegel's game last year proved that he has eliminated the fault that early handicapped him—that of "keeping his feet" at crucial moments.

The Canadian, however, is but one of close to a dozen of the younger set that has been fighting for the limelight the Big Three have held for years. Numbered among the others are Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Bill Melhorn, Mike Brady, Bob MacDonald and more lately Cyril Walker and Willie MacFarlane.

It's going to be a tough year for the Big Three.

NAT SLAB ACE HAS GOOD YEAR

Walt Through Just Like John D. is Broke.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Those vigilant and disinterested souls who stand around waiting to sound the first alarm for volunteer pallbearers were pleased to see the beginning of the end of Walter Johnson when the Pirates beat him in the final game of the 1925 world series. Walter, they chorused with pardonable glee, was through, all-over-and-done-with, passe.

The writer presumes that one ball game proves this fact. He, however, would prefer to judge the merits of the case on one season, the last.

Look at the Records.

The official records, recently issued, show the 38-year-old master to have turned out a very natty performance for the season of 1925. In fact, only two other pitchers, Rommel, of the Athletics, and Lyons, of the White Sox, topped him in games won, in spite of the fact that he was incapacitated for more than a month.

Had Johnson retained his health over the entire campaign, it is altogether conceivable that he would have won at least 25 games, thereby driving his critics to cover. At is was, he won 20, with Rommel and Lyons leading him by a single victory.

Only seven games were lost by the Senatorial wonder and in percentage of victories, only Stanley Coveleskie, another elderly gent, had the edge on him.

Then there was the matter of earned runs, a department that gives the real low down on a pitcher's ability. Here Walter was third, Coveleskie and Herb Pennock, of the Yankees, being the only American league pitchers to better his figures.

Hit for .433.

Next? Well, the old boy hit for an average of .433, which is generally regarded as a fairly adequate performance in any league. It wasn't any build-up, either. Johnson was used in many games as a pinch hitter and proved to be Washington's most dependable right-hand batter among the relief forces.

Fielding? Don't make us laugh. Our stays are a trifle tight. He went through the entire season without an error.

Poor, old Walter Johnson!

Ruth Starts Training At His Sudbury Home

Great Hitter Shuns Broadway's Bright Lights as He Thinks of $52,000 Yankee Contract, Plays Golf to Put His Legs in Condition.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—According to those who hover in the great man's wake, George H. Ruth, the well known baseball player, is on another of his periodical seances of self-denial down at the old homestead in Sudbury, Mass. Our Mr. Ruth apparently selects every second years to starve himself into submission and at present the great famine is on, or so they say.

He made his lone appearance on Broadway, since the conclusion of the baseball season, at the Army and Navy game, and it was noted with great glee that he was down to his last 230 pounds, which, if true, is not so bad, at that. He probably outranked this figure by 20 pounds at a corresponding period last year.

They say Ruth really is sincere this time in his course of spartan austerity. Never before, it is said, has his self denial been so great or so steadfast. Never before has the business been so necessary. One more season like the last and the $52,000-a-year man wouldn't be able to sell himself to the Yankees for 30 cents on the dollar.

Perhaps the young man has come to a tardy realization of the situation. Perhaps it is just a matter of environment. Seemingly, he can embrace the cloistered existence to better effect in the winter time when, perversely enough, it is not so necessary for him to be in good condition. Associations and environment have a lot to do with what seems like a useful career headed for a premature end.

Ruth was very near the end during the 1925 season. An extremely sick man, he was allowed to return to the game too soon for the good of either himself or his club. He was not in condition to play ball at any time during the campaign, and there was but slight hope that he would be.

Realizing the hospelessness of his task, he made little effort to train and, finally, was suspended by Miller Huggins. This action had something of the desired effect, for Ruth finished with a bit of a flourish, coming up from .260 to .290 in hitting and getting a matter of 22 home runs.

This, however, was not the kind of a record the Yankees were paying him $52,000 a season to compile. Neither were they gratified to note that Ruth's legs seemed to be failing him, a tell tale sign in a ball player's career.

He couldn't range the outfield with his old abandon. His speed on the bases was gone. However, the writer knows a lot of ball players who, placed in Ruth's position, couldn't have been out there at all.

Therefore, those who predict that Ruth will not come back may be a bit hasty. If he can work himself back to something like normalcy, there is no reason to assume that his leg trouble will be either chronic or permanent. The legs can be built up by plenty of walking. He is getting that now with two rounds of golf daily and soon will go south to continue the system.

The rest remains with Ruth and his diet, if any. If he takes no greater pains with his condition than he did last year, there will be no hope for him. He must live the simple life or take the consequences.

Lorah Lines Up Strong Squad For Opener With F. & M.

Local Passers Will Meet Old Team-Mates In Thursday Battle

Brother vs. Brother Scoring Duel Anticipated With Bob and Tom Pusey on Opposing Sides; Percy Wyant and "Chuck" McConville Also Prove Valuable Cogs in Taylor Machine.

FORMER team mates of the caged court who battled shoulder to shoulder through a difficulst last season's schedule will become bitter basketball enemies when Coach Lorah sends his Blue and White quint into action on Thursday night at the high school gymnasium against Sam Taylor's Franklin & Marshill academy outfit, of Lancaster, Pa., in the opening scrap of the card here.

Team against team, brother against brother and, unless anticipations fail of relization, a red-hot scrap to open appropriately what appears now to be one of the most brilliant seasons in years—all will combine to make Thursday's lid-lifter a sure fire attraction that is calculated to sell tickets faster than the proverbial hot cakes.

Sam Taylor is bringing to East Liverpool a team that he confidently expects to be the best F. & M. floor product in recent years, and the fact that three of the regulars are East Liverpool boys is no small tribute to the brand of basketball developed in the Ceramic City.

And for every point that Bob drops in, fans will count on an equalizing figure from his brother, Tom, who'll likely be filling one of the point making roles for the Lorah combine from Thursday on. This duel is certain to provide a few high test sparks.

Paul English, best scholastic fullback in the county for the season recently closed, critics from all points north agreeing also, will draw one of the guard jobs.

Elmer English at center, Carl Wilson at forward and probably Bough at the other guard will constitute the lineup unless Coach Lorah decides to change it around a bit before game time.

Franklin & Marshall will have the experience of at least two games before they arrive in East Liverpool. In both of the engagements in which the Taylor outfit has figured thus far, the Pennsylvanians have run up lopsided scores, swamping Harrisburg academy by the count of 58 to 14 in the opener.

In addition to the five named above, Lorah will also have the services of Banks, who has been working out with the first string outfit, and can pick from J. Hamilton and H. Deidrick, forwards; Brozka, center; and Hanes and Jack Bromby, guards.

POWER QUINTET DOWNS LISBON

Dodge Motors Lose on I. O. O. F. Floor; Score, 30 to 13.

Lisbon Dodge Motors' basketball passers proved easy pickings for the Power Five last night on the Odd Fellows' floor, where they went down to a 30 to 13 defeat.

The Power five outclassed the visitors. The locals used their reserves in the second half.

The Power five set the pace, leading by the score of 10 to 6 at the end of the first period. At the end of the half the score was 22 to 6.

With the Power five substitutes in the lineup the game became more even, only outscoring the Lisbon lads by a point.

Todd, former Wellsville high school and Franklin and Marshall academy star, was the stellar performer, caging seven baskets from the field, besides playing well in other departments of the game. Jester followed Todd in scoring, finding the baskets for five field goals, while Bucher put up a strong defensive game at guard.

Sullivan, Johnson and Henderson were the best performers for the Lisbon five.

Lineup and summary:

Power Five		Dodge Motors
Todd	F	Sexton
Cunningham	F	Sullivan
Jester	C	Johnson
Bucher	G	Henderson
Dickey	G	Stockman

Substitutions—Jester for Cunningham, Cunningham for Jester, Cockran for Bucher, Rockhold for Dickey, Stewart for Todd, Smith for Rockhold, Haun for Sullivan.

Young Jockey Wins Top Honor of British Flat Racing Season

LONDON.—To a young jockey of only twenty-one years of age, who has only ridden for six seasons, has fallen the highest honor in English horse-racing, that of being the champion jockey for the current flat-racing season.

The young jockey is Gordon Richards, a member of a family famous in English horse-racing and he rode his first winning race in March, 1921. Since then he has mounted the ladder steadily every year, and during the present flat-racing season he has outstripped every other jockey in England with a record total of over 115 winners.

He is said to be the finest exponent of the present-day method of jockeyship, and does not know the meaning of fear.

"Hinkey" Haines, former Penn State football star and later a member of the New York Yankees, may get another chance in the major leagues next season. He did good work with Rochester last season. SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

Jack Kearns, perfumed ex-manager of Jack Dempsey, has long been given the lion's share of the credit for making Dempsey champion of the world and the greatest drawing card the sport world has known to date.

"Kearns took him when he was a bum and made him a champion," is the tribute often paid the gentleman of the loud shirts and rapid chatter.

But Kearns' failure to reap a harvest with. Mickey Walker may well raise the question as to whether or not Kearns' genius as a pilot has been over-rated.

Kearns took over the management of the welterweight champion when that man was the only active king in the ring and when his services were really in demand. But to date Kearns has failed to reap a harvest with him. Walker's recent battle with Sailor Friedman, one of the leading contenders for his title, netted the champion but a share of the total receipts of something like $35,000. This is a trivial amount for a champion to earn in these days of high finances.

This despite the fact that the other champions were not drawing any portion of the limelight at the time.

Walker never was a popular champion. No doubt Kearns expected to talk Mickey into the limelight. He failed to do so. He apparently has made no effort to advance the welter king as he did Dempsey, by matching him in clever style. Whatever credit is due Kearns for Dempsey's rise must be for Kearns' skill in picking the right men for him in the right order. His failure to so match Walker would indicate that it wasn't so much the fact that Kearns picked the right ones that made Dempsey champion as it was Dempsey's ability to sock whomever Kearns sent him against.

Apparently a popular bubble regarding Mr. Kearns has been busted.

Bobby Quinn, president of the Red Sox and, by that token, boss of Lee Fohl, manager of the team, asks a very pertinent question anent the failure of Lee to turn the world upside down with a team last season.

While the jolly panners are asking, "What did Fohl do last year to merit his retention next season?" Quinn counters with this query:

"What could any other man have done with the same mess?"

Which, to my way of thinking, very adroitly and effectively puts the knockers on the defensive.

That Chicago still thinks of Eddie Collins as the good old reliable star at second base, rather than as a manager, is indicated by the joyful manner in which Windy City fans receive word that the veteran infielder believes his leg, injured last August, has fully recovered and will not handicap him next season.

The injury forced Collins out of the game for the remainder of the 1925 campaign and, because of his baseball age it was feared that the accident might spell the end of his career. Eddie, however, reports the peg entirely mended.

Should Collins be forced to manage his team of hustlers from the bench next season there will be a merry scramble for the second basing job—and a deep regret on the part of the fans who have followed Eddie's play for years.

Coast Welcomes Johnson.

Pacific Coast league fans will welcome the return of Ernie Johnson, who was very popular with the baseball public when he played with the Salt Lake team before he went to the New York Yankees. It is expected that next season will see Ernie playing one of the infield positions with the Portland Beavers in addition to piloting the team.

LUTHERANS WIN FLOOR BATTLE

Annex Church League Victory at Expense of Methodists.

On the First Methodist Episcopal floor last night, the Lutherans won their first Church league victory, when they downed the Methodists by the score of 26 to 25.

The game was a nip and tuck affair, the score being 23 to 23 at the end of the regular periods of play. The Lutherans annexed the victory in the extra period.

The Methodists led the Lutherans during the first half by a 15 to 12 count, but in the second period the Lutherans set a fast pace.

Anthony and G. Woessner were the Lutherans scoring aces. Bromby, Dawson, Nease and Karns did the scoring for the Methodists, Bromby being the star.

Young Jockey Wins Top Honor of British Flat Racing Season

LONDON.—To a young jockey of only twenty-one years of age, who has only ridden for six seasons, has fallen the highest honor in English horse-racing, that of being the champion jockey for the current flat-racing season.

The young jockey is Gordon Richards, a member of a family famous in English horse-racing and he rode his first winning race in March, 1921. Since then he has mounted the ladder steadily every year, and during the present flat-racing season he has outstripped every other jockey in England with a record total of over 115 winners.

He is said to be the finest exponent of the present-day method of jockeyship, and does not know the meaning of fear.

"Hinkey" Haines May Get Another Big League Trial

"Hinkey" Haines, former Penn State football star and later a member of the New York Yankees, may get another chance in the major leagues next season. He did good work with Rochester last season. He's an outfielder. He blames Miller Huggins' efforts to change his batting style for his failure to remain "up."

Jack Kearns, perfumed ex-manager of Jack Dempsey, has long been given the lion's share of the credit for making Dempsey champion of the world and the greatest drawing card the sport world has known to date.

"Kearns took him when he was a bum and made him a champion," is the tribute often paid the gentleman of the loud shirts and rapid chatter.

But Kearns' failure to reap a harvest with. Mickey Walker may well raise the question as to whether or not Kearns' genius as a pilot has been over-rated.

Kearns took over the management of the welterweight champion when that man was the only active king in the ring and when his services were really in demand. But to date Kearns has failed to reap a harvest with him. Walker's recent battle with Sailor Friedman, one of the leading contenders for his title, netted the champion but a share of the total receipts of something like $35,000. This is a trivial amount for a champion to earn in these days of high finances.

This despite the fact that the other champions were not drawing any portion of the limelight at the time.

Walker never was a popular champion. No doubt Kearns expected to talk Mickey into the limelight. He failed to do so. He apparently has made no effort to advance the welter king as he did Dempsey, by matching him in clever style. Whatever credit is due Kearns for Dempsey's rise must be for Kearns' skill in picking the right men for him in the right order. His failure to so match Walker would indicate that it wasn't so much the fact that Kearns picked the right ones that made Dempsey champion as it was Dempsey's ability to sock whomever Kearns sent him against.

Apparently a popular bubble regarding Mr. Kearns has been busted.

Bobby Quinn, president of the Red Sox and, by that token, boss of Lee Fohl, manager of the team, asks a very pertinent question anent the failure of Lee to turn the world upside down with a team last season.

While the jolly panners are asking, "What did Fohl do last year to merit his retention next season?" Quinn counters with this query:

"What could any other man have done with the same mess?"

Which, to my way of thinking, very adroitly and effectively puts the knockers on the defensive.

That Chicago still thinks of Eddie Collins as the good old reliable star at second base, rather than as a manager, is indicated by the joyful manner in which Windy City fans receive word that the veteran infielder believes his leg, injured last August, has fully recovered and will not handicap him next season.

The injury forced Collins out of the game for the remainder of the 1925 campaign and, because of his baseball age it was feared that the accident might spell the end of his career. Eddie, however, reports the peg entirely mended.

Should Collins be forced to manage his team of hustlers from the bench next season there will be a merry scramble for the second basing job—and a deep regret on the part of the fans who have followed Eddie's play for years.

Coast Welcomes Johnson.

Pacific Coast league fans will welcome the return of Ernie Johnson, who was very popular with the baseball public when he played with the Salt Lake team before he went to the New York Yankees. It is expected that next season will see Ernie playing one of the infield positions with the Portland Beavers in addition to piloting the team.

LUTHERANS WIN FLOOR BATTLE

Annex Church League Victory at Expense of Methodists.

On the First Methodist Episcopal floor last night, the Lutherans won their first Church league victory, when they downed the Methodists by the score of 26 to 25.

The game was a nip and tuck affair, the score being 23 to 23 at the end of the regular periods of play. The Lutherans annexed the victory in the extra period.

The Methodists led the Lutherans during the first half by a 15 to 12 count, but in the second period the Lutherans set a fast pace.

Anthony and G. Woessner were the Lutherans scoring aces. Bromby, Dawson, Nease and Karns did the scoring for the Methodists, Bromby being the star.

Male Mortality From Cancer is Increasing In Great Britain

LONDON—Male mortality from cancer is increasing in England, according to statistics issued by the Registrar General's department.

The standardized rate of mortality for men from cancer is now about equal to that of women, according to the statistics, which say that the figures per 100,000 are 97 and 98 respectively. Before 1914 the cancer mortality rate among men in England was 91 per hundred thousand. The statistics reveal that more men die of cancer in the large towns than in the rural areas.

Living costs in Greece now are the highest they have ever been.

Ancient Tomb Exposed.

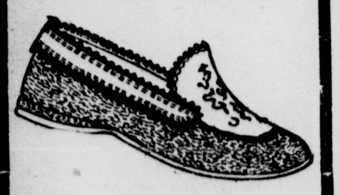

ATHENS—Recent heavy floods in Athens have resulted in the discovery near the outskirts of the city of thirty ancient tombs containing gold ornaments, vases and five mummies.

The aumost importance is attached to the find by archaeologists although it has not yet been ascertained to what epoch the tombs belong.

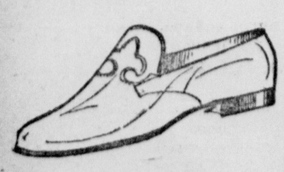

Rumania has decided that it will not increase any government expense except the salaries of government employes in the coming year.
